COSMOPOLITAN TOPOGRAPHIES
Narrative, Identity, and Urban Spaces

Texas Tech University
Monday 10\textsuperscript{th} January, 2011

Formby Room
Southwest Collection Building

10-1015 Opening Remarks

1015-11.45 Panel 1: Greek Topographies

Moderators: Donald Lavigne, Christopher Witmore

Jason L. Banta, Texas Tech University
"The Gymnasium of the Mind: Lucian’s Imaginary Cosmopolis in the Anacharsis"

Elton T. E. Barker, The Open University, UK
"Towards a Digital Topology of an Ancient Historian: the HESTIA Project"

Marcus Folch, Columbia University
"God and Man Enchained: Imprisonment and the Invention of Sovereignty in Archaic and Classical Greece"

Susan A. Stephens, Stanford University
"Writing Alexandria as the (Common)place"

11.45-12.00 Coffee/Tea Break

12.00-1.15 Panel 2: Material Topographies

Moderators: Jason Banta, Donald Lavigne

Cecelia Feldman Weiss, Brown University
"Ephesos, Hydropolis of Asia: Civic Benefaction and the Provision of Water in Roman Ephesos"

Jennifer Gates-Foster, University of Texas, Austin
"The Cosmopolitanism of the Fringes: A View from Upper Egypt"

Christopher L. Witmore, Texas Tech University
"The Polis as a Moving Project: A Case from the Peloponnesus"
1.15-2.30 Lunch

2.30-3.45 Panel 3: Roman Topographies

Moderators: David Larmour, Donald Lavigne

Paul Allen Miller, University of South Carolina
"Placing the Self in the Field of Truth: Irony and Self-Fashioning in Roman Rhetorical Theory"

Randall J. Pogorzelski, University of New England, New South Wales, Australia
"Flavian Centers and Peripheries"

Diana J. Spencer, University of Birmingham, UK
"On treacherous ground? Propertius’ Rome in Elegies 4"

3.45-4.00 Coffee/Tea Break

4.00-5.15 Panel 4: Topographies beyond the Classical World

Moderators: Jason Banta, David Larmour

Peter I. Barta, University of Surrey, UK
"How many times can Rome rise and fall? False Mythopoetry and the Writable Text"

Laura J. Beard, Texas Tech University
"From Glenbow to GLA$NOST: Indigenous Artists and the Construction of Identities"

Timothy D. Crowley, Texas Tech University
"A Protestant Englishman in Rome, Easter 1606"

5.15-5.30 Closing remarks