Classics Abroad

This program is a four week international field school focused on the archaeological excavation of the Roman Fort of Binchester in the North of England. Texas Tech students, alongside students from more than 45 countries and institutions around the world, spend four weeks excavating, processing artifacts, and visiting key archaeological sites in the area of the Hadrian’s Wall frontier zone.

Student accommodations are located in St. John’s College in the middle of the old castle of Durham, England across from its world-famous Cathedral.
