Students will learn how to prepare for and respond to corporate, nonprofit and government sector crises from a public relations perspective. Through case studies and in-class activities the course emphasizes the practical application of crisis communication best practices, strategies and tactics when developing and implementing crisis communication plans.