Ana Navarro
GOP Strategist and Political Contributor to CNN, ABC News, and Telemundo

2018 Celebrate Diversity Banquet Speaker

As a well-known Republican strategist and a political analyst for CNN and CNN en Español and a political commentator for ABC News, Ana Navarro is in touch with the current political climate and able to discuss the latest hot-button issues, giving audiences an insider's view of upcoming elections and a roadmap for where the country is headed. Respected on both sides of the aisle for her straight shooting and candor, Navarro frequently sought out by the media, appearing on shows like Meet the Press, Bill Maher's Real Time, Anderson Cooper 360 and The View.

Navarro served as the national Hispanic co-chair for Gov. Jon Huntsman’s 2012 campaign and the national co-chair of John McCain’s Hispanic Advisory Council in 2008, where she was also the national surrogate for the McCain 2008 campaign. In 2001, she served as ambassador to the United Nation’s Human Rights Commission, devoting much of her energy to condemning human rights abuses in Cuba. She has played a role in several federal and state races in Florida, served on Gov. Jeb Bush's transition team in 1998 and was his first director of immigration policy in the Executive Office of the Governor.

Prior to her work in the public sector, Navarro represented private and public clients in the private sector on federal issues, including those related to immigration, trade and policy affecting Central America. She also served as a special adviser to the government of Nicaragua and was one of the primary advocates for NACARA (Nicaraguan Adjustment and Central American Relief Act).

Navarro was born in Nicaragua and immigrated with her family to the U.S. in 1980 as a result of the Sandinista revolution. She graduated from the University of Miami in 1993 with a bachelor’s degree in Latin American studies and political science and received her juris doctorate degree in 1997.
