Research Study with Combat Veterans

What is this study about?
This study is being done to better understand risk factors for suicide. Specifically, this study will help us better understand events or experiences that may influence risk for suicide among veterans.

You may qualify if you are:
- A combat veteran deployed for Operation Iraqi Freedom, Operation Enduring Freedom, and/or Operation New Dawn.

What does it entail?
- Completion of several paper and pencil questionnaires and an interview.
- Participants will view video while connected to a device that will record your heart rate and sweating. Note that the video presented contains realistic combat scenes.
- Participants will complete four research sessions over the course of 10 days, which may include a weekend research participation day. It is estimated that it will take approximately 1.5 to 2 hours to complete the first research session, and less than 1.5 hours to complete the subsequent three research sessions. Estimated total time for all four research sessions is approximately 5.5 hours.
- Offices for this study are located in the Psychology Building on the Texas Tech campus.

Will I be paid?
Participants who complete the four research sessions will receive $50.00 for their time.

Dear Texas Tech Student Veterans:

Hi, my name is Vicie Hurst and I am a doctoral student in the combined Counseling Psychology and School Psychology program at the College of Education at Florida State University. I am currently conducting my dissertation research on perceived support and college adjustment with student veterans.

I am requesting that you distribute this e-mail to any student veterans that you may know. If you have a student veteran or member’s e-mailing list or listserv, feel free to distribute this e-mail via either of those routes. You may also post the survey information on any affiliated student veteran group/association Facebook page if you so choose.

Specifically, I am asking student veterans to complete a survey about social support, institutional support, and their college adjustment in order to gain more information about these areas and to provide better support to student veterans. For each completed survey, I will donate $2.00 to the Disabled American Veterans (DAV) Charitable Service Trust!

The overarching goal of this project is to gain a better sense of student veterans’ college experiences and perceived support so that postsecondary institutions and service professionals will be able to better meet their needs and improve their overall college experience and quality of life.

If you think you might be interested in participating or would like further information, please either follow the above link to the survey or e-mail me at vah07@my.fsu.edu. My major professor, Deborah Ebener may also be contacted with any questions by e-mail at debener@fsu.edu.

You participation is appreciated!

All my best,

Vicie Hurst
