Proceedings
Comparative Literature Symposium
Texas Tech University
Volume XIII

THE TELLER
AND THE TALE:
ASPECTS OF
THE SHORT STORY

Edited by
Wendell M. Aycock

Texas Tech Press
Lubbock, Texas
1982
Contents

Preface ......................................................... 5

SYMPOSIUM LECTURES

From Raconteur to Writer: Oral Roots and Printed Leaves of Short Fiction ..................... 13
  Warren S. Walker

The Device of Conspicuous Silence in the Modern Short Story ................................. 27
  Joseph M. Flora

Realism and Anti-Realism in the Modern Short Story ............................................ 47
  William Peden

The Arduous Journey ........................................... 63
  Margaret Sayers Peden

Constancy and Variation: The Short Story in Germany .......................................... 87
  A. Leslie Willson

The Scholarly Journal and Short Fiction Criticism ............................................. 103
  Steen H. Spove

One Writer's Perception of the Short Fiction Tradition:
  How Would Edgar Allan Poe Make a Duck? ....................................................... 119
  Gordon Weaver

Plain and/or Fancy: Where the Short Story Is and May Be Going ............................. 133
  George Garrett

LUNCHEON ADDRESS

Stories of Stories and Such ........................................... 145
  Boyd G. Carter

Notes on the Authors .............................................. 155