Exploring Family and Community in Spain

This Seville-based Human Development and Family Studies (HDFS) study abroad program offers students an opportunity to live in an historic Spanish city and study family and community through service learning. The program will expose students to public policy issues, programs, and practices that influence youth, families, and communities in the U.S. and in Spain. Common policy, service, and programming issues are experienced through field activities with our service learning partners in Seville.

COURSES OFFERED:
- HDFS 3322.S01: Family and Community
  The course introduces students to youth and family public policy issues in multiple domains (e.g., education, health, justice, social services).
