The College of Human Sciences (CoHS) supports high achieving students by providing an engaging learning environment, undergraduate research experiences, and co-curricular opportunities for professional and educational development. Students in the College of Human Sciences are charged with improving and enhancing the human condition. This mandate breeds a sense of community and shared passion. We are fortunate to have supportive alumni, community partners, and kind-hearted individuals who believe in the mission our students will carry out after graduation. We are grateful to be able to support our high-achieving students due to generous donations from these individuals.

Incoming freshmen who meet the merit requirements outlined below and apply to Texas Tech University (TTU) by April 15 are guaranteed to receive a scholarship within the College of Human Sciences. Scholarships will be awarded past April 15 as available; contact Denise Sanchez for further details. We recommend entering freshmen complete the university application online at http://scholarships.ttu.edu to be considered for additional university, college, and department scholarships by February 1; transfer students are encouraged to apply before March 1.

Assured Admissions requirements are determined by the office of undergraduate admissions. You are assured admission if you are graduating from an accredited high school and present the required combination of high school class rank and college entrance test scores indicated above. The required SAT scores for assured admissions are based on the math and critical reading portions only.
