ABOUT THE WTAC CONFERENCE

The West Texas Assessment Conference was established in 2012 and is co-hosted by Texas Tech University and Angelo State University. The goal of the conference is to bring together higher education professionals from West Texas and the surrounding areas to share innovative practices and strategies related to planning, assessment, and accreditation. This approach has been successful and has attracted numerous professionals from the Midwest and southern region of the country. WTAC has benefited from attendance and participation of diverse faculty, staff, and administrators from public institutions, private institutions, health-related programs, community colleges, and research universities. We look forward to your participation and are happy to answer any questions.
