POLICY/PROCEDURE

1. Texas Tech University’s Compensation Philosophy

In pursuance of attracting and retaining a highly qualified and diverse workforce and to fill openings at all levels, it is Texas Tech University’s (“TTU” or “university”) philosophy to maintain consistent and competitive salary ranges based on the university’s goals, priorities, and financial position. TTU seeks to recognize and reward its employees for their talent, skills, and performance. TTU is committed to maintaining a work environment free of discrimination and encourages all employees to strive to reach their full potential.

The following statements express TTU’s objectives with respect to base pay of all employees. TTU recognizes not all these objectives may be completely achieved at all times for employees, but they are set forth herein to serve as guides for which proposed actions are to be administered and evaluated as outlined in the compensation policy.

a. Compensation Objectives

(1) It is the university’s objective to establish and maintain a compensation system that will:

- Attract and retain qualified personnel at all levels of responsibility;
- Recognize and reward individual ability and performance;
- Reflect the complexity and responsibility of jobs;
- Be externally competitive, internally consistent, and fair;
- Obtain the optimum degree of employee performance, morale, and loyalty through consistent compensation administration;
- Control direct and indirect personnel costs;
- Foster good employee understanding and relationships by providing individual employees with information on the pay structure and its administration;
• Be flexible and simple to administer; and
• Provide uniform methods of establishing and applying salary rates, and to facilitate the employment, classification, and promotion of employees.

(2) The compensation policy is to:

• Establish wage and salary ranges that reflect the value of the various jobs, as determined by a formal system of continuous job evaluation and review, taking into account the duties and level of responsibility of each job;
• Establish and maintain justifiable differentials between job levels;
• Adjust pay ranges when warranted by changing economic and competitive factors, as determined by periodic surveys;
• Encourage superior performance by adjusting the salary rate of each employee on the basis of the quality of individual performance, as determined by a systematic program of performance evaluation;
• Ensure that consistent and equitable compensation practices are maintained across TTU;
• Ensure that supervisory employees are responsible for integrating TTU’s commitment to Affirmative Action and Equal Employment Opportunity in recruitment, promotion, and compensation evaluation actions;
• Ensure compensation is not influenced by race, color, religion, sex (including pregnancy), sexual orientation, gender identity, age, national origin, disability, genetic information, status as a protected veteran, or any other legally protected class, category, or characteristic; and
• Comply with applicable laws and regulations and established policies and procedures.

2. Texas Tech University Pay Plan Structure

Every Texas Tech University position is subject to applicable federal and state laws and regulations, in addition to university policies and procedures. The university’s pay plan is divided into two categories: Classified and Non-Classified.

a. Classified Pay Plan

Texas Tech University’s Classified Pay Plan is administered by Human Resources. Each classified position has a standardized specification with a position code, position class title, position summary, minimum qualifications, exemption status, job category, pay grade, and pay range with set minimum, mid, and maximum salary rates. Essential job duties and preferred qualifications are determined by the employing college or department.

b. Non-Classified Pay Plan

Texas Tech University’s Non-Classified Pay Plan is administered by Human Resources. Non-Classified positions are often one of a kind, used by a small number of employees, or faculty-related and allow flexibility to address the university’s unique job market when determining compensation. Non-Classified positions are often widely recruited for and require a specific degree and/or specialized training. Non-Classified positions have standardized specifications with a position code, position class title, minimum qualifications, exemption status, and job category. Essential job duties are determined by the employing college or department.

3. Authority to Set Compensation

Authority to set the compensation paid to employees resides with the Board of Regents as outlined in Chapter 07 Fiscal Management of the Regents’ Rules. This authority is exercised through policies which regulate salaries and wages and through review and adoption of the annual operating budget. In conjunction with approval of the itemized budget during the normal budget cycle, the Board of Regents has delegated authority to approve all faculty and staff salary increases to the President. All increases requested outside the normal budget approval process will require approval of the President or his designee in areas as specified in this operating policy.

a. Presidential Approval

The President delegates the authority to approve adjustments to salary and compensation in accordance with OP 10.02, Delegation of Authority by the President. Approval by the President is required prior to the effective date for adjustments to an employee’s total salary rate, not required by law, when such adjustment is 10% or more per annum and the per annum, accumulative for the fiscal year. This does not apply to:

1. Bona fide promotions – An employee moving from one previously existing position to another, in a higher pay grade, not as a result of a reclassification, pay grade adjustment, or other action related to any specific change to the position an employee currently holds.

2. Supplemental compensation payments as provided by law, (i.e., FLSA ruling, EEO settlements, etc.).

3. Adjustments to an employee's salary rate or wage rate that result in a per annum increase of an amount less than or equal to $2,000.

4. Overload positions – An employee who receives additional compensation for teaching one or more courses in addition to their primary position/job responsibilities. Overload positions are considered supplemental appointments and are not guaranteed.

5. Interim duties – Administrative salary supplements that temporarily augment the base appointment salary as a result of a special assignment.

6. Faculty summer appointments – With few exceptions, faculty are appointed on a 9-month basis, September through May. Summer appointments are based upon summer instructional or research needs as determined by the department chair, college dean, and/or available research funding. Summer employment is considered a supplemental appointment and is not guaranteed.

(7) Increases to faculty and instructor salaries at the beginning of an academic semester resulting from either a summer appointment or a leave without pay status ending and the 9-month salary resuming.

(8) Base salary increases resulting from a change in the full-time equivalency (FTE) percentage to meet the business needs of the college/department.

(9) Student employee wage increases – A student employee is defined as an individual who is performing part-time work incidental to their academic training in an occupational category that requires incumbents to be students as a condition of employment.

For the purposes of this policy, base salary shall mean the monthly salary x 12 x FTE for monthly paid employees. For hourly paid employees, base salary shall mean the hourly wage x 2080 x FTE.

b. Beginning Base Rate of Pay for Classified Employees

(1) An individual shall normally be appointed to a position in the Classified Pay Plan at a salary at or between the minimum and the midpoint of the salary range for the assigned class.

(2) An employee who is promoted to a position in a higher pay grade will receive a salary at or between the minimum and the midpoint of the salary range for the assigned class.

(3) Vice president or Provost approval is required when hiring or promoting an employee above the midpoint and must be justified by the exceptional qualifications of the applicant; or by the demonstrated lack of qualified applicants; and does not create an inequity between the individual and employees already employed by the university in that class.

(4) An employee whose position has been reclassified upward will receive a salary at or between the minimum and midpoint of the salary range for the assigned class.

(5) Exceptions to this policy must be approved by the President, upon being forwarded through administrative channels to the appropriate vice president who will review the exception along with a written explanation from the requesting department in addition to relevant information provided by Human Resources.

4. Types of Pay Increases

Staff and Faculty pay increases are administered in accordance with the Texas Government Code Sections 659.251, 659.253, 659.2531, 659.256-259, 2101.3035, and 2101.037. Faculty increases are also administered in accordance with Texas Tech University OP 32.08, Faculty Salary Increases.

(2) The effective date of the increase is at least 6 months after the effective date of the employee’s last promotion, reclassification, equity, or merit increase.

(a) In situations where the President or Chancellor’s executive leadership issues a performance memo in lieu of a performance evaluation, the memo must identify that the employee is at least meeting expectations.

b. Equity

An equity increase may be awarded to employees as needed to maintain desirable salary relationships between and among employees of the university or between employees of the university and employees who hold similar positions in relevant labor markets. An employee may receive an equity increase if:

(1) The employee has worked in his or her current position for at least 6 months and maintained a satisfactory level of job performance;

(2) The employee has not received any type of pay increase in the 6 months prior to the effective date of the equity increase;

(3) The increased salary is still within the pay range of the current pay grade; and

(4) The employee has not received an equity increase within the current fiscal year.

When considering an equity increase for an employee, the education, skills, job duties, related work experience, length of service, and job performance of current university employees in similar positions and similar positions in the relevant labor market must be taken into consideration. Contact Human Resources to assist in this type of review.

c. Reclassification

A reclassification is the reassignment of a position to a different class or pay grade category. An analysis of job duties, level of responsibilities, minimum required qualifications, and reporting relationship of the position will be reviewed by Human Resources in collaboration with the department. A position can be reviewed for a reclassification if the position’s duties have significantly changed to support the business need of the department.
