

Faculty Position in Clinical Psychology
Department of Psychology
Texas Tech University

The Clinical Psychology Doctoral Program (APA-accredited since 1972) at Texas Tech University invites applications for one tenure-track assistant professor position to begin Fall, 2012. While we anticipate hiring at the Assistant Professor level, candidates of higher rank will also be considered. Research area within clinical psychology is open; however, the Department is particularly interested in those with research interests in clinical health psychology/behavioral medicine, or clinical neuropsychology. Applicants should have a strong programmatic research focus with the potential to secure extramural funding, ability to teach effectively at the graduate and undergraduate levels, and provide service to the department and university. Candidates must receive a Ph.D. from an APA-accredited Clinical Psychology program by August, 2012.

The Clinical Psychology program embraces a scientist-practitioner training model with strong mentorship of graduate students. The Department (see www.psychology.ttu.edu) promotes a collegial environment among 27 full-time faculty and over 100 graduate students. Texas Tech University (www.ttu.edu) is classified as a doctoral research-extensive university by the Carnegie Foundation and has an enrollment of 32,000 students. Texas Tech University offers 104 masters and 57 doctoral programs, with Schools of Medicine and Law located on campus. Numerous opportunities exist for collaboration with nearby Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center departments. Lubbock is a temperate, low-cost metropolitan area of more than 220,000 people.

Review of applicants begins January 10, 2012 and continues until the position is filled. All applications must be submitted online at <http://jobs.texastech.edu> under requisition number 84462. Submit cover letter, curriculum vita, documentation of research and teaching effectiveness, up to three sample reprints, and three letters of recommendation. Texas Tech University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. We strongly encourage applications from women and minorities, and we consider the needs of dual career couples.
