Supply chain majors obtain the knowledge and skills needed to assume key roles in companies managing the transport, distribution, and sourcing of goods. Coursework includes supply chain management, logistics management, purchasing, and analytical methods.

Before each semester’s Career Expo, Supply Chain Management students meet and network with recruiters from around the country at the Tech Supply Chain Association Breakfast. During the breakfast, students speak with recruiters in a roundtable setting. Recruiters also use this as an additional opportunity to gain greater access to students and speak with them about the needs of their company.
