Senator Payne reported on the meeting of the Administrative Council. His report was circulated with the agenda and is available in the Senate office.

Senator Peters reported on the meeting of the Research Council. His report was circulated with the agenda and is in the Senate office. He noted that this council meets at the same time as the Senate, so that he attempts to divide his time between the two meetings. He stated that he wishes to provide a strong voice for the faculty on this body.

President Stoune reported on the formation and first meeting of the Provost's Council. This body is made up of Vice Presidents, Deans and the President of the Faculty Senate. VI. Remarks by the Executive Vice President and Provost

Executive Vice President and Provost Haragan reported that the new administrative structure has resulted in one less administrator overall in central administration. The Councils remain very important in decision-making. The makeup and responsibilities of all councils have not yet been completed, but current councils are: Provost's Council, made up of Deans, Vice Presidents and the Faculty Senate President, chaired by Dr. Haragan; Academic Council, combining the former Academic and Administrative Councils and concentrating on academic matters, makeup not yet final but will include Faculty Senate Vice President, Chaired by Dr. Len Ainsworth; Operations Advisory Council, keeping its former responsibilities and adding a number of administrative ones, makeup not yet final but will include the Faculty Senate Secretary, chaired by Dr. Jerry Ramsey; Research Council, continuing as before, including a designated Faculty Senator, chaired by Dr. Bob Sweazy.

STUDENT ASSOCIATION REQUEST

Information Guidelines

To eliminate any confusion as to the type of information we are looking for, the Tech Enhancement Committee has established the following five guidelines:

1) Newsworthy Facts - Any fact that is current and of a nature as to be expected to be found in a newspaper.

2) Unique Facts - Any trivia or tradition that is unique to Tech, especially in reference to other Texas universities.

3) Prestigious and Distinguished Facts - All honors bestowed upon Tech, various colleges and departments, alumni, and students, that are awarded by organizations outside the TTU + TTUSM system.

4) Distinguished Alumni - Any alumni that can be considered a household name or would be immediately recognizable to the average person. For example, the Chairman of the Board for GTE.

5) Research - Any research that has national significance or is supported by large grants, for example, SDI or Ford Motor Co. research.

Please remember, all facts should be citable; we may have to back up what we say! Your help is appreciated; together we can truly make Texas Tech twice the University!

*Totals include pledges, expectancies (through wills and bequests) and gifts-in-kind, which include buildings, equipment, collections, art, etc.
Our committee has no detailed information about concerns we were requested to address. We want in each case to hear specific complaints concerning the following:

LACK OF DROP AND WITHDRAWAL NOTICES: We felt that the present system is sufficient because professors usually know through absences who is/has dropping/dropped even without notices. It will be useful to ask the registrar if there have been other complaints, if more speedy/frequent reports can be made available.

BUILDING AND ROOM INFO AND CLASS SCHEDULES: We need to know the reasoning behind this proposal. Is it just a money-saving or time-saving idea? Students have to be informed on their enrollment slips in any case. Does delaying the decision until that point help?

ATTENDANCE RECORDS: Most departments/professors have their own systems in place for keeping attendance. Are there numerous complaints about the failure to keep attendance? We are all charged in the Catalog to keep Deans informed of excessive absences. We felt that a standardized reporting system, such as public schools have, would meet with considerable opposition from a number of faculty, since there are about as many different attitudes and systems as there are professors.

DEADLINE FOR WP: Once again, we need information. Why did we change to the present system (No drop allowed after 10/10, this year, barring complete withdrawal) from the one that allowed professors to assign a WP, if the student was passing, virtually up until the last moment? The faculty should be asked which system they prefer. If students are complaining that they are being forced to stay in classes for which they no longer have time or in which they no longer are interested, they may have a legitimate gripe. The present practice of circumventing the rule by assigning a WP anyway may encourage favoritism.

ON-LINE INFORMATION TO ADVISORS: Some departments have already made on-line capabilities available to their advisors/faculty; others are currently free to do so. If the practice becomes generalized, the University will have to bear some of the expense, as it has for departments already on-line, but departments will have to purchase terminals, cables, etc. It must be recognized that there are distinct limitations (primarily slowness) to using the computer to advise. Moreover, some advisors will not be interested in using it, or will make only limited use of it. So the use may not balance the cost. The University/registrar may want eventually to consider allowing direct enrollment from the advisor’s terminal; which may allow a reduction in expenses and a more efficient enrollment system.

COMPUTERIZED REGISTRATION: This discussion overlapped somewhat with the preceding one. We agreed overall that computerization has improved registration, but we do still see a weakness in the students’ being sent running back and forth from advisor to West Hall. In order properly to study virtues and problems of the system, we would of course need to consult with the registrar, as well as to survey students. Are there numerous complaints? What is their nature? From whom do they come?
