Davis College of Agricultural Sciences and Natural Resources
Award Selection Committee

Dear Committee,

It is my pleasure to nominate Dr. Anastasia Stellato for the TTU Alumni Association New Faculty Award. Dr. Stellato has been a faculty member for no more than four years at any university and has demonstrated exceptional teaching, research, and student interaction at Texas Tech University.

Dr. Stellato has positive student evaluations, demonstrates innovative teaching and research/creative activities, and interacts with students in many capacities – especially undergraduate research. Dr. Stellato's achievements include above average student evaluations, innovative teaching activities through animal interaction, initiation of research and creative activities, and impactful interaction with students outside the classroom. Moreover, Dr. Stellato actively publishes scientific journal articles, serves on numerous committees, and brings positive attention to the undergraduate program in the Department.

Please find attached the nominee's vita and summary of student teaching evaluation scores for Davis College nomination. Your consideration of Dr. Stellato for this award is greatly appreciated.

Regards,

Dr. J Chance Brooks, Chair
Department of Animal and Food Sciences
