

DR. CHENGGANG WANG

Associate Professor
Agricultural & Applied Economics

Conduct economic analysis to help rural communities improve resource use efficiency and reduce poverty.

RESEARCH EXPERTISE

- Natural resource economics
- Agricultural economics
- Optimization
- Risk Analysis

PROFESSIONAL PREPARATION

- B.E. Northeast University, China, 1996
- M.A. Nankai University, China, 2001
- Ph.D. Oregon State University, 2007

FAVORITE ARTICLE

Wang, C., & Nair, S. (2013). The economics of deficit irrigation. Natural Resource Modeling, 26(3), 331-364. <https://doi.org/10.1111/nrm.12004>

WHAT MAKES THE DAVIS COLLEGE GREAT?

The Davis College is a great place for conducting applied research and teaching practical knowledge. The college has a culture of respecting creative activities that promote student success and stakeholder interest.

