Cade Manning Hayes, AIA
DUST Architects

Cade Hayes is originally from Carlsbad, New Mexico, where youthful experiences in the Chihuahuan Desert and the Pecos River nurtured his dreams and memories and implanted the meaning behind the phrase “spirit of the place.” In 1997, he moved to Lubbock, Texas, to study at Texas Tech University Huckabee College of Architecture. Upon receiving his master’s degree in 2002, he relocated to the Sonoran Desert in Tucson, Arizona, to pursue Architectural opportunities in a lush, and strangely familiar desert landscape of the American Southwest.

MJ Neal, FAIA
MJ Neal Architects

MJ Neal, FAIA has been the principal of a cross-disciplinary studio, focused primarily on architecture, for over twenty-five years. The studio’s work has been recognized nationally and internationally through publications, exhibitions, and awards, including a National AIA Design Award and numerous Texas Society of Architects Design Awards. In 2008, Mr. Neal was honored with the Tau Sigma Delta Silver Medal for Design Excellence from Texas Tech University. And in 2011, he was inducted into the American Institute of Architects College of Fellows. He has also held numerous teaching positions and lectured in the U.S., Mexico, and China.

Ron Stelmarski, FAIA
Perkins & Will

Ron Stelmarski has spent the past twenty-one years with Perkins & Will relentlessly advancing the cause of design, ten in Chicago and the most recent eleven in Dallas, as design director. His work is recognized for navigating complex programs, unique sites, tight budgets, and challenging schedules while producing award-winning designs that elevate the public realm and galvanize communities with architecture of enduring aesthetic, environmental, and social value.
