

Studio Brief

The studio will tackle the design of small cabins and a workshop for use by TTU architecture students and faculty on the outskirts of Marfa, Texas.

The location/goals of this project will require students to consider a host of ideas – the ms.

marfa	enigmatic, confounding, mysterious, inspiring . . . Donald Judd / Chinati Foundation modularity	designed/built using transportable modules mobility	structures built elsewhere and shipped to Marfa moldability	must respond to the site, molded to the landscape mutability	serving students over time, cabins must be adaptable materiality	the rugged environment demands appropriate materials map	compound will locate and define a place that has great potential for students mirror	a reflection of student academic exploration, a synopsis of their design educations maker	fabrication by future students is to be considered meaning	the project will become a place that is meaningful to scores of future students
