Browse Courses Relevant to Hispanic/Latinx Heritage Month

Texas Tech University encourages all students to develop greater awareness regarding the lived experiences and diversity of individuals who identify as Hispanic and/or Latina/o, both historically and in our modern society.

In the College of Arts & Sciences, opportunities to continue important conversations outside the classroom are readily available. As a community, we embrace chances to engage with topics that are relevant to the lived experiences of Hispanic/Latinx individuals as well as to celebrate their achievements and accomplishments.

Beyond attending events in honor of Hispanic/Latinx Heritage Month, we encourage members of our community to consider enrolling in courses that deeply engage with topics pertaining to Hispanic/Latinx populations and that are offered within the College of Arts & Sciences and count toward fulfilling requirements of the Mexican American & Latina/o Studies minor (University Studies). Enrolling in these courses will give students opportunities to engage with topics about the diverse experiences of Hispanic/Latinx persons and know more about their various contributions to society. In doing so, students will participate, more fully, in meaningful dialogues and develop a greater appreciation of the experiences of Latino/a and Hispanic people, not only Hispanic/Latinx Heritage Month, but throughout the year.

A list of select courses is included below. Please consider enrolling in one of these sections.
