Faculty Publications Relevant to the experiences of Hispanic/Latinx people.

Faculty in the College of Arts & Sciences are engaged in scholarship that examines the lived experiences and capabilities of Hispanic and/or Latina/o individuals. Texas Tech University is proud to highlight the recent contributions of our Arts & Sciences faculty that spotlight issues relevant for Hispanic/Latinx populations and increase awareness of historical and modern contributions of people who identify as Hispanic/Latina/o. Engaging with these scholarly works provides opportunity to more fully engage in constructive conversations about the diverse experiences of those who identify as Hispanic and/or Latina/o for the benefit of all Red Raiders within the Arts & Sciences.

We encourage members of our college community to develop their awareness of the diversity of Hispanic/Latinx populations in our local and global communities. Beyond attending events in honor of Hispanic/Latinx Heritage Month, we invite faculty, students, staff, and alumni to discover our faculty’s recent research, which examines and amplifies the voices of Hispanic and Latinx people, both historically and in today’s modern society.

Department of English

Department of Kinesiology and Sport Management

Department of Mathematics & Statistics

