

Helping Students Stay Engaged

Suzanne Tapp and Dr. Allison Boye

While traditional lecture may be most familiar and comfortable to many instructors, it is not the only option available and may not be the most effective strategy for student learning and engagement. Research emphasizes the importance of active student engagement in the classroom for maximizing student motivation, satisfaction, and deep learning. In this session, we will highlight some principles to consider when engaging students and work through some common concerns and challenges in the classroom.
