(6) The method(s) used by the institution to determine which students receive Emergency Financial Aid Grants and how much they would receive under the CRRSAA and ARP (a)(1) and (a)(4) programs.

There were two ways to identify students:

1. There were a limited number of applications from the original CARES Act applications that were paid by CRRSAA funds. The criteria was as follows:
 - a. Texas Tech University is using an application process for eligible students to request funds for the emergency grants to students. In the first month, students were eligible to apply for up to $500 for food, housing, technology, course materials, or other expenses related to the disruption to campus in Spring 2020.
 - b. Texas Tech University is using an application process for eligible students to request funds for the emergency grants to students. In the second month, students were eligible to apply for up to $750 for food, housing, technology, course materials, or other expenses related to the disruption to campus in Spring 2020.
2. The majority of awards were made in a block grant to students who met the following criteria: a. Block grants were awarded to all students who had an EFC of 10,000 or less as

- the federal guidelines indicated that students who had “exceptional financial need” should be prioritized.
3. Beginning with summer 2021, block grants were awarded to all students who had an EFC of 15,000 or less as the federal guidelines indicated that students who had “exceptional financial need” should be prioritized.
 4. Beginning with fall 2021, block grants were awarded to all students who had an EFC of 15,000 or less as the federal guidelines indicated that students who had “exceptional financial need” should be prioritized.
 5. Beginning with fall 2021, international students who completed an application and provided documentation were awarded one-time payments of $1,250.

(7) Any instructions, directions, or guidance provided by the institution to students concerning the Emergency Financial Aid Grants. We identified the students and communicated with each recipient who was receiving the funds about the source and amount of funds.
