About the Graduate Writing Center

The Graduate Writing Center is dedicated to developing graduate students' and postdoctoral associates' writing and research skills. Our Writing Center brings together scholars and writing consultants with disparate backgrounds, interests, and talents in order to foster the effective communication skills and spirit of intellectual inquiry that are central to graduate study.

Core values and practices guide the Graduate Writing Center's work, including:

- Collaboration – We believe writing is a collaborative endeavor and every writer needs a good reader. We work with clients and colleagues to develop their written communication skills.
- Process – We know there is always more for us to learn as writers and writing consultants, and we continually strive to improve through reflection and discussion.
- Justice – We see our work not only as a service, but also as a way to work towards a more inclusive academic discourse and just society. We respect client agency and value diversity.
