Funding Opportunities for International Students Prior to/While Applying for Graduate School

ACM SIGHPC Computational & Data Science Fellowships. These $15,000 fellowships seek to increase the diversity of students pursuing graduate degrees in data science and computational science. Specifically targeted at women or students from racial/ethnic backgrounds that have not traditionally participated in the computing field, the program is open to students pursuing degrees at institutions anywhere in the world. For the purposes of these fellowships, “computational science” encompasses any program of study where computational modeling and simulation serve as the primary methods for conducting research, typically in a field other than computer science (e.g., computational chemistry, wildfire modeling, computational hydrodynamics). Similarly, “data science” relies on computational analysis of large-scale data as the basis for research (e.g., ecological informatics, financial analytics). Preference will be given to candidates whose background is from disciplines other than computer science and who can bring new perspectives to computational/data science. Preference will be given to students who are still early in their studies. Each fellowship recipient will receive a stipend prior to the start of their first academic term after August 1. This stipend is intended to augment, not replace, the support already being provided by the institution. Recipients will receive the stipend annually for up to 2 years, as long as they are deemed to be making appropriate progress in the degree program (progress will be evaluated annually by ACM SIGHPC based on a brief report from each recipient). If additional funding becomes available, fellowship winners may be given the opportunity to receive extended support (through the completion of the degree, but not more than four years total). Deadline April 30th. <https://www.sighpc.org/fellowships>

American Association of University Women (AAUW) International Fellowships. Fellowships ($18,000-30,000) are awarded for full-time study or research in the United States to women who are not U.S. citizens or permanent residents. Both graduate and postgraduate studies at accredited U.S. institutions are supported. Applicants must have earned the equivalent of a U.S. bachelor’s degree by the application deadline and must have applied to their proposed institutions of study by the time of the application. Up to five International Master’s/First Professional Degree Fellowships are renewable for a second year; fellows will receive application information for this competitive program. Recipients are selected for academic achievement and demonstrated commitment to women and girls. Recipients return to their home countries to become leaders in business, government, academia, community activism, the arts or scientific fields. Applications are due November 15th. <https://www.aauw.org/resources/programs/fellowships-grants/current-opportunities/>

Asian Cultural Council Graduate Scholarship. ACC gives a small number of scholarships each year to students who have been admitted to a graduate degree program in the U.S. in an eligible field [mostly in the arts]. This funding may be used for travel and living expenses, but it will not be sufficient to cover full tuition costs. Applicants who have not yet received an admissions offer are welcome to apply, but ACC must receive proof of admission before funding can be awarded. Priority is given to applicants who choose to study abroad because comparable programs are not available in their home country, and to those working in fields that are underrepresented in their home country. Applicants may request up to three years of funding in their initial application. Multiyear awards will be made, but continued payments are dependent on the student remaining in good academic standing and meeting ACC reporting requirements. March deadline. <https://www.asianculturalcouncil.org/our-work/programs/fellowships-and-grants/graduate-scholarship>

CONACYT Graduate Fellowship Program. Some US universities have entered into agreement with the Mexican National Council for Science and Technology (CONACYT) to support Mexican nationals admitted

Fulbright Foreign Student Program. Administered by binational Fulbright Commissions/Foundations or U.S. Embassies, the program enables graduate students, young professionals, and artists from abroad to study and conduct research in the United States. The Fulbright Foreign Student Program operates in more than 155 countries worldwide and approximately 4,000 foreign students receive Fulbright scholarships each year. All Foreign Student Program applications are processed by these offices and then the three sponsor agencies (IIE, Amideast, Laspau). Program eligibility and selection procedures vary widely by country. Consult the Fulbright website to find more information about Fulbright in your home country including eligibility requirements and application guidelines. To be eligible, home country must be listed here: <https://foreign.fulbrightonline.org/apply>.

Leakey Foundation

Franklin Mosher Baldwin Memorial Fellowships are intended for students with citizenship in a country where there are limited opportunities for advanced training and education in fields of research related to human origins. This program makes it possible for scholars to pursue education or training from an institution outside of their home country. This award is for a program of approved, advanced special training or studies leading towards an MA or PhD. It is limited to two years of support. The maximum award is limited to $15,000 per year. Due March 1st. <https://leakeyfoundation.org/grants/baldwins/>

Joan Cogswell Donner Field School Scholarship provides up to $2,000 towards field school tuition for students who are from countries with limited resources to support training in fieldwork related to human origins research. Recipients must be enrolled in an undergraduate or graduate program in a country where there are limited resources for academic development. Students from these countries may be enrolled in a university undergraduate or graduate program outside their home country as well. Awarded year round. <https://leakeyfoundation.org/grants/fieldschool/>

Louisville Institute Doctoral Fellowship. The program encourages current Ph.D./Th.D. students to consider theological education as their vocation. The Institute awards two-year Doctoral Fellowships of $3,000 per year. In addition, Fellows constitute a peer learning cohort that meets six times over a two-year period. March 1st deadline. <https://louisville-institute.org/programs-grants-and-fellowships/fellowships/doctoral-fellowship/>

Margaret McNamara Education Grants (MMEG) US and Canada Program. Our mission is to assist women from developing countries who are pursuing their education with the aim of improving the lives of women and children in their countries. Self-identifying women who are from eligible countries, at least 25 years-old, and enrolled in eligible universities (as certificate, undergrad, grad, or postdoc students) are welcome to apply. Applicant must already be enrolled as a full-time student, with relevant student visa in national passport, and plan to continue studying full time in the following academic year; not hold US citizenship or permanent residency (green card) or Canadian citizenship or Canadian landed immigrant status. In past years, grants of up to $15,000 have been awarded. January deadline. <https://www.mmeg.org/apply>

P.E.O. International Peace Scholarship. The programs provide financial assistance to women from outside the United States and Canada who are seeking advanced degrees from an accredited college or university in the U.S. or Canada with the expectation that students will return to their home countries to utilize their education to make a positive impact and foster global peace. In order to qualify for her first scholarship, an applicant must have a full year of coursework remaining, be enrolled and in residence for the entire school year. Doctoral students who have completed coursework and are working only on dissertations are not eligible as first-time applicants. The maximum amount awarded to a student is $12,500. Lesser amounts may be awarded according to individual needs. Eligibility forms are due in December. Full applications are due in March for current graduate students and in April for incoming graduate students. <https://www.peointernational.org/ips>

Bard Graduate Center (BGC) Fields of the Future Fellowship and Mentorship Program. These fellowships—for both scholars and artists—reflect our commitment to explore and expand the sources, techniques, voices, and questions of interdisciplinary humanities scholarship from different perspectives. BGC studies the past in its own terms to better understand where the future has come from. We invite applicants to submit projects that they think map the fields of the future. In an effort to promote necessary diversity and inclusion in the fields of decorative arts, design history, and material culture, we particularly wish to encourage applicants from historically underrepresented groups and/or projects of related thematic focus. The fellowships are intended to fund collections-based research at Bard Graduate Center or elsewhere in New York City, as well as writing, reading, and creative projects in which being part of our dynamic research environment is intellectually valuable. Doctoral students of exceptional promise are encouraged to apply. Artists at any career stage may apply, but applicants should not be enrolled in full-time undergraduate or graduate programs. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, mental, or physical disability, age, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, familial status, veteran status, or genetic information. $14,000. December 1 deadline. <https://www.bgc.bard.edu/bgc-research-fellowship>

Bayer Falling Walls Female Science Talents. In our Intensive Track, we provide close support for 20 exceptionally talented women in science. The goal is to increase their visibility and help them achieve a personal career breakthrough within one year. The selected champions get the opportunity to meet outstanding women leaders and are matched with high-profile mentors. They participate in intensive trainings both online and in-person in Berlin. Regular meetings encourage the 20 women to build an international network for the purpose of peer learning, peer coaching, and mutual support. We promote the champions' international visibility and impact by including their stories and achievements in Falling Walls Social Media campaigns, and having them speak in a public event set during the Berlin Science Week in November each year. November deadline. <https://falling-walls.com/female-science-talents/intensive-track/>

DAAD (Deutscher Akademischer Austauschdienst - German Academic Exchange Service)

The DAAD offers numerous opportunities to study and to do research in Germany; specifically, for graduate students. <https://daad.org>

- German Studies Research Grant. For highly-qualified graduate students, who are nominated by their department/program chairs, the grant may be used for short-term research (one to two months) in Germany. It is designed to encourage research and promote the study of cultural, political, historical, economic, and social aspects of modern and contemporary German affairs from a multidisciplinary perspective. Deadlines are May 1 and November 1st.
- University Summer Course Grant. This program provides scholarships for three- to four-week summer courses at German universities which focus mainly on German language and literary, cultural, political, and economic aspects of modern and contemporary Germany. Extensive extracurricular programs complement and reinforce the core material.
- Short-Term Research Grants. Designed for highly qualified candidates who have completed a Master's degree or those who have already completed a PhD (postdocs), these grants fund 1-6 months of research. The application portal for PhD and postdoc students is open June 30th – November 4th.
- Research Grants – One-Year Grants. Designed for highly qualified candidates who have completed a Master's degree, these grants fund 7-12 months of research. Application portal opens June 30th. Deadlines vary by discipline.

Davis-Putter Scholarship Fund aids people active in movements for social and economic justice. These need-based scholarships are awarded to students who are able to do academic work at the college or university level or are enrolled in a trade or technical program and who are active in the progressive movement. US citizenship is not required but applicants must have participated in activities in the United States and be planning to enroll in an accredited program in the US in order to apply. There is a strong preference to award grants to students who are planning on staying in the United States and building the progressive movement there. The maximum grant available from the Davis-Putter Scholarship Fund is $15,000 per year. Due April 1st. <https://davisputter.org/apply-for-scholarships/>

Edmund S. Muskie Professional Fellowship Program is a professional development program funded by the U.S. Department of State since 2015 that provides emerging leaders of the Fulbright Program from Eastern Europe, the Caucasus, and Central Asia with the opportunity to gain real-world experience complementing and enriching their graduate studies in the United States. Muskie Fellows show a commitment to developing practical skills and a deeper understanding of U.S. work culture, and readiness to use this experience to implement positive changes and make a long-lasting impact in their home countries. Participants will receive assistance securing a full-time summer internship. Costs to participate in the program are covered by the grant, and participants will receive a stipend to cover living expenses in the cities in which their internship takes place. Applicants must currently be a Fulbright Foreign Student and must be currently studying towards a graduate degree at a U.S. college or university. Applicants must be a citizen of one of the following countries: Armenia, Azerbaijan, Belarus, Georgia, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyz Republic, Moldova, the Russian Federation, Tajikistan, Turkmenistan, Ukraine, or Uzbekistan. <https://culturalvistas.org/muskie-2/>

ETS Fellowship and Internships

Harold Gulliksen Psychometric Research Fellowship provides funding for promising graduate students in psychometrics, or a related field, who are conducting innovative, applied research. Selected fellows will carry out their proposed research under the mentorship of their academic advisor and in consultation with their ETS mentors over the course of the funding. The fellowship begins with the selected fellows working on their research as part of the Summer RMS Internship Program, where they will be provided with guidance from ETS's leading researchers. During the subsequent academic year, fellows study at their universities and carry out research under the supervision of an academic mentor and in consultation with their ETS mentor. Each fellow's university receives $20,000 to pay a stipend to the fellow, $8,000 to defray the fellow's tuition, fees and work-study program commitments, and a small grant to facilitate work on the fellow's research project. Preliminary application materials due in January. <https://www.ets.org/research/internship-fellowship/gulliksen>

Summer Research and Measurement Sciences (RMS) Internship Program for Graduate Students. Interns work with experts who are nationally and internationally known as thought leaders, trusted advisors and go-to collaborators for their high-impact work addressing significant educational and societal

ETS® AI Labs™ Summer Internship Program: The ETS® AI Labs™ work drives the innovation and development of teaching and learning technologies that are grounded in research and powered by next-generation AI. The Labs are dedicated to working closely with end-users to uncover real-world needs, and co-designing and prototyping solutions to meet those needs. Interns accepted into the ETS AI Labs summer program will participate in user needs, discovery and exploration, solution ideation and validation, capability and prototype development, iterative user validation and data-driven solution optimization. Interns receive $12,000 in compensation. February deadline. <https://www.ets.org/research/internship-fellowship/summer-ai-research-labs>

Environmental Research & Education Foundation (EREF). Scholarships are awarded by EREF to recognize excellence in master's and doctoral waste management research and education. Applications from students outside the United States or studying abroad will receive equal consideration. Applicants must have a clearly demonstrated interest in solid waste management research. EREF defines solid waste management to pertain to municipal solid waste, construction & demolition waste, industrial waste (e.g., coal ash), WTE ash, etc. Note this definition does not include agricultural wastes or wastewater treatment plant sludge. Doctoral scholarships are awarded up to $15,000 per year, paid monthly, and can be extended for up to 3 years from the initial award date. Master's scholarships are awarded up to $7,500 per year and can be extended for up to 2 years from the initial award date. Scholarship renewal is dependent upon satisfactory progress as determined by the student's academic advisor. <https://erefdn.org/scholarship-program/>

Gerda Henkel Foundation PhD Scholarships. The foundation provides financial support for the historical humanities. In line with one of the founder's wishes, a special focus of the Gerda Henkel Foundation is support for up-and-coming scholars. Special attention is made when approving grants to enable qualified young researchers of both sexes to conduct scientific work for a limited period of time and in order to improve their academic training. As part of its Ph.D. program, the Foundation seeks to promote highly-qualified new academic talent. Only those candidates are considered whose study achievements and exam performances show them to be especially gifted and whose Ph.D. theses can be expected to yield well above-average results. Fellows receive a monthly scholarship award of 1,600 euros. The funding period is up to two years. In justified cases, the scholarship period can be extended for up to 12 months if an extension application is made before the end of the second year of funding. Applications accepted throughout the year. <https://www.gerda-henkel-stiftung.de/en/phd-scholarships>

Getty Foundation Pre- and Postdoctoral Fellowships are intended for emerging scholars to complete work on projects related to the Getty Research Institute's annual research theme or the African American Art History Initiative. Recipients may be in residence at the Getty Research Institute or Getty Villa, where they pursue research projects, complete their dissertations, or expand dissertation for publication. Fellows make use of the Getty collections, join in a weekly meeting devoted to the annual theme, and participate in the intellectual life of the Getty. Getty Predoctoral Fellowships are for nine months from late-September to late-June and receive a stipend of $30,000. Getty Postdoctoral Fellowships are for nine months from late-September to late-June and receive a stipend of $35,000. Both fellowships may provide a workspace at the Getty Research Institute or the Getty Villa, an apartment in the Getty scholar housing complex, a travel stipend, and healthcare options. These terms apply as of June 2022 and the terms and length of grants are subject to change. Health and safety guidelines for grantees may also be imposed. Due October 3rd.

Google PhD Fellowship. Limited competition (up to four from a university), the program was created to recognize outstanding graduate students doing exceptional and innovative research in areas relevant to computer science and related fields. Fellowships support promising PhD candidates of all backgrounds who seek to influence the future of technology. Google's mission is to foster inclusive research communities and encourages people of diverse backgrounds to apply. Students receive named Fellowships which include a monetary award. The funds are given directly to the university to be distributed to cover the student's expenses and stipend as appropriate. The funds are given as an unrestricted gift, and it is Google's policy not to pay for overhead on unrestricted gifts. In addition, the student will be matched with a Google Research Mentor who we hope will become a valuable resource to the student. Fellowship recipients are not subject to intellectual property restrictions unless they complete an internship at Google. Fellowship recipients serving an internship are subject to the same intellectual property and other contractual obligations as any other Google intern. If a Fellowship student is interested, an internship at Google is encouraged, but not guaranteed or required. The fellowship includes Full tuition and fees (enrollment fees, health insurance, books) plus a stipend to be used for living expenses, travel and personal equipment. Applicants must have completed graduate coursework by the Fall of the award year, when the Fellowship begins. Deadline in September. <https://grad.uic.edu/funding-awards/other-funding/googlephd/>

Graham Foundation, Carter Manny Awards. The only predoctoral award dedicated exclusively to architectural scholarship, the Carter Manny Award recognizes emerging scholars whose work promises to challenge and reshape contemporary discourse and impact the field at large. Eligible dissertation projects must focus on architecture, though scholarly investigations may be grounded in a range of academic disciplines and fields of inquiry that align with the mission of the Graham Foundation. These include: architecture and architectural history; art and art history; design; engineering; landscape architecture; urbanism; and other related fields. The award assists students enrolled in graduate programs in architecture, art history, the fine arts, humanities, and the social sciences working on architecture topics. Limited number of nominations per institution. Deadline in November. http://www.grahamfoundation.org/grant_programs/?mode=award

Harry Frank Guggenheim Emerging Scholar Awards. Formerly the Harry Frank Guggenheim Dissertation Fellowships, the award recognizes promising graduate-student researchers in their final year of writing a doctoral dissertation examining a salient aspect of violence. The Foundation welcomes proposals from any of the natural and social sciences or allied disciplines that promise to increase understanding of the causes, manifestations, and control of violence and aggression. Highest priority is given to research that addresses urgent, present-day problems of violence—what produces it, how it operates, and what prevents or reduces it. The award is $25,000 for one year. Applicants may be citizens of any country and studying at colleges or universities in any country. Deadline in February. <https://www.hfg.org/emerging-scholars/>

Harry S. Truman Library Institute for National and International Affairs Dissertation Year Fellowships. Dissertation Year Fellowships are intended to encourage historical scholarship of the public career of Harry S. Truman or the Truman era. This fellowship is intended to free a doctoral student from teaching or other employment to facilitate completion of his or her dissertation. Preference will be given to projects based on extensive research at the Truman Library, but since the research is presumed to be complete, there is no requirement of residence at the Library during the fellowship year. Graduate students who have

Institute for Historical Research, Research Fellowships in History are intended as writing-up [completion] awards for those who can make a clear argument about the need for additional time beyond the three years of doctoral study (or equivalent in the case of part-time or international students with longer programs of study). Doctoral students must be engaged in the completion of a doctorate in history (broadly defined), on topics from 300AD to the present day. Applicants must have completed at least three years of full-time or four years of part-time research on their doctoral program (and not more than four years' full-time or six years' part-time) at the beginning of the academic year in which the awards will be held. Adjustments to these timings will be made for international degrees, which may be longer in duration. Fellows will participate actively in the academic life of the Institute. For example, they will be encouraged to attend and present papers at appropriate IHR seminars, to contribute to relevant initiatives at the Institute, and/or to assist and support fellow scholars. The Fellowships will be worth £15,726 for the full year; six-month Fellowships will be worth £7,863 [$9,000 in the Truss era, Oct. 2022]. Deadline in July. <https://www.history.ac.uk/join-ihr/fellowships/junior-fellowships/ihr-doctoral>

December 1 deadline. <https://www.linkenergy.org/>

Malevich Society Research Grants. Proposed projects should increase the understanding of Malevich and his work, or augment historical, biographical, or artistic information about Malevich and/or his artistic legacy. The Society also supports translations and the publication of relevant texts. The Society welcomes applications from scholars of any nationality. PhD candidates whose dissertation topics have been accepted by their institutions may apply for support after completing at least one year of dissertation research. Applications are due September 30th. <http://malevichsociety.org/grant-procedures/>

Mellon/ACLS Dissertation Innovation Fellowships are designed to support emerging scholars as they pursue bold and innovative research in the humanities and interpretive social sciences. The program will make awards to doctoral students who show promise of leading their fields in important new directions. The fellowships are designed to intervene at the formative stage of dissertation development, before writing is advanced, and provide time and support for emerging scholars' innovative approaches to dissertation research – practical, trans- or interdisciplinary, collaborative, critical, or methodological. The program seeks to expand the range of research methodologies, formats, and areas of inquiry traditionally considered suitable for the dissertation, with a particular focus on supporting scholars who can build a more diverse, inclusive, and equitable academy. Includes a $40,000 stipend for the fellowship year, plus up to $8,000 for project-related research, training, development, and travel costs. The award also includes a $2,000 stipend for external mentorship. Due November 2nd. <https://www.acls.org/competitions/mellon-acls-dissertation-innovation-fellowship/>

Microsoft Research PhD Fellowship. Microsoft recognizes the value of diversity in computing and aims to increase the pipeline of talent receiving advanced degrees in computing-related fields to build a stronger and inclusive computing-related research community. Fields include artificial intelligence & machine learning; race & technology; health & life sciences; economics & computational social sciences; mixed reality; data platforms; human-computer interaction, and cybersecurity. A $42,000 USD stipend will be provided to help with living expenses while in school for two academic years. PhD students must be in their third year of PhD study and be nominated by their university; limit of four per campus with caveats. Advanced Education Research and Development Fund (AERDF). Leveraging Education Advanced Research Now (LEARN). LEARN is a research and development program focused on improving the conditions for the social and emotional wellbeing and positive academic outcomes of Black and Latinx learners.

Funding for International Students

Leveraging Educational Advanced Research Now, or LEARN, is a means of identifying innovative, rapid response research proposals that will advance solutions in support of AFG's central hypothesis. With an initial investment in projects with budgets of $100,000-$300,000, AFG hopes to advance research projects that reflect state-of-the-art practices or tools that support the assessment of the social, emotional, and educational needs of culturally diverse populations. Under LEARN, AFG seeks research proposals that can be completed in 12 months or less. In order to ensure a quick award process, proposal feedback and evaluation will occur promptly, so that valuable research can begin within 60 days of proposal submission. LEARN is intended to be broadly accessible to communities who would not otherwise participate in advanced educational research and development. We encourage proposals that deeply reflect our priority populations of Black and Latinx learners and projects that include outcomes that will benefit Latinx or Black learners and their educators. Proposers should consider creating deep collaborations with community-based organizations. Letters of intent due in September or March. <https://www.aerdf.org/rfp-leveraging-education-advanced-research-now-learn/>

American Association of University Women (AAUW) International Project Grants. To create lasting support around the globe, AAUW awards grants ($5,000–$7,000) to International Fellowship alumnae who have returned home after successfully completing the course of study for which they received funding. These grants allow alumnae to build on their academic work and implement community-based projects that will improve the lives of women and girls. Alumnae of our International Fellowships and International Project Grants have tackled women's equity issues head-on. From securing property rights for widows to building safe hearths for cassava production, these women are helping the most vulnerable — and the most resilient — members of their communities. November deadline. <https://www.aauw.org/resources/programs/fellowships-grants/current-opportunities/>

American Center of Research (ACOR) National Endowment for the Humanities Research Fellowship. The ACOR offers a maximum award of ten and a half months for a scholar who has a Ph.D. or has completed his or her professional training. In the place of a ten-and-a-half-month award, the committee may elect to offer other awards may be made for a minimum period of four months. Fields of research include but are not limited to: modern and classical languages, linguistics, literature, history, jurisprudence, philosophy, archaeology, heritage studies, comparative religion, ethics, and the history, criticism, and theory of the arts. Social and political scientists are encouraged to apply. An award for ten months is $50,000, of which $32,000 is for stipend and travel and the remainder is for ACOR room and board. Shorter award periods are prorated accordingly (i.e., an award of six months is $30,000 and includes $19,200 for stipend and travel); residency at ACOR is required. American Council of Learned Societies (ACLS) Leading Edge Fellowship. In 2022, the Leading Edge Fellowship program offered 20 two-year fellowships partnering recent humanities and interpretive social sciences PhDs with organizations advancing social justice and equity in communities across the United States. The fellowship positions are designed to draw on the humanistic skills, capacities, and frameworks developed in the course of earning a PhD in the humanities and interpretive social sciences, as well as provide a range of networking and career-building opportunities. In this competition, ACLS will place fellows with 20 participating nonprofit organizations. Each Leading Edge Fellow will receive a $62,500 stipend in the first year, and $65,000 in the second year, as well as health insurance and professional development funding. Fellows will join their host organizations to contribute to initiatives and projects addressing criminal justice reform and mass incarceration, racial discrimination and economic inequality, and access to childcare, food security, and voting rights. The fellows also will participate in a variety of professional development and networking activities designed to help translate the experiences of their 24-month placements into post-fellowship career opportunities. Applicants must be authorized to work in the US for the entire duration of the fellowship term. This includes Indigenous individuals residing in the United States through rights associated with the Jay Treaty of 1794, and those who hold DACA status, Temporary Protected Status, or political asylee or refugee status. Neither ACLS nor the host organization can sponsor fellows for visas. March deadline. <https://www.acls.org/competitions/acls-leading-edge-fellowships/>

Walters Art Museum Postdoctoral Fellowships. <https://thewalters.org/about/research/fellowship-internship/>

Mellon Fellow Art of the Americas. The Walters Museum of Art is seeking qualified candidates for a postdoctoral curatorial fellowship funded by a generous permanent endowment made in 2008 by the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation to the Walters Art Museum and other supporters. This is a two-year fellowship, with the possibility of renewal for a third year. The fellowship provides exceptional curatorial training and supports scholarly research related to the collection of the Walters Art Museum, with access to the museum's outstanding collections, archives, and research library. Consideration will be given to candidates working in Ancient American art and visual culture, and who possess the desired scholarly background. A doctoral degree in art history or an equivalent field must have been officially conferred within 5 years prior to the start date of the fellowship. No other fellowship may be active at the start of this position. Applicants from all backgrounds are encouraged to apply. The fellow will receive an annual salary of $55,000 plus research and travel and/or conference expenses up to $5,000 per year, plus benefits.

Andrew W. Mellon Postdoctoral Curatorial Fellowship. The Walters seeks an outstanding scholar with expertise in mid-19th to early-20th American: History, and/or Material Culture, and/or Archival Research. For this fellowship, candidates with expertise in the history of collections and/or 19th-century U.S. history (especially of Baltimore, Maryland, North Carolina, and/or New York) are encouraged to apply. Preference will be given to art historians and historians who seek to apply research skills in political, economic, or social historical research to the study of collections and collecting, especially during the mid-19th to mid-20th centuries. The focus project for the successful applicant will further the museum's commitment to making accessible the histories of its origins and the art that it stewards in order to ensure an environment of anti-racism, inclusivity, collaboration, and welcome for visitors, volunteers, and staff. The fellowship lasts for two years.
