RESILIENCE & RETENTION CONFERENCE

Ryan Scheckel

Assistant Director,
Pre-Professional Health Careers

Texas Tech University

Ryan has been in academic advising since 2002, working with students from exploratory to declared, first generation to legacy, and from fine arts to pre-health. He serves in leadership roles at both the state and international levels and his professional interests include advising history, theory and philosophy and the intersections between academic advising and higher education's larger purpose. A graduate of Texas Tech, Ryan's academic background includes studies in Human Development, Public Administration, Leadership, and Higher Education Administration. He is also a HUGE pop culture nerd!
