STUDY ABROAD IN

Costa Rica
RENEWABLE ENERGY – COSTA RICA

Costa Rica receives 99% of its electricity through renewable energy. Costa Rica’s renewable energy portfolio includes hydroelectricity, geothermal energy, biomass energy, solar power, and wind energy. Students will get an opportunity to tour several renewable energy facilities throughout Costa Rica and will get an opportunity to understand the regulatory framework and legal challenges that face the Costa Rican government in continuing to develop renewable energy assets. This is also an opportunity for students to develop an understanding of renewable energy systems outside of the United States and how another country pursues its renewable energy interests. Students will also get an opportunity to study at the Texas Tech University Costa Rica campus in San Jose, Costa Rica.

COURSES OFFERED:
WE 4320: Independent Study in Wind Energy

Eric
Mechanical Engineering project at LACE
Internship at TTU Engineering

If I could put the experience in two words, they would be fun and growth. The program was structured beautifully so that we as students could participate in a variety of fun Brazilian activities while developing our professional skills at the same time. I got to learn how to have a conversation in Portuguese, I was introduced to a variety of people from all over the world, and I got to learn about the Brazilian music & history. While this was going on, I was able to build a really close connection with my team working on our project for LACE. We were able to talk to each other from across the world and collaborate on something that I believe the company is really able to build upon. It taught me more about myself and more about how things work in the business world, outside of engineering. Although I wasn’t actually able to visit Sao Paulo, I feel like CampusB did an amazing job of bringing the experience to me. It was a summer that I will not soon forget. I am grateful for everything and everybody who participated, and I look forward to visiting Brazil very soon.

Global Public Relations in Manchester, England

Experience authentic England by studying and working for 10 days in Manchester, the city that launched the industrial revolution. The goal of this study abroad is to help students develop real-world international communication experience. As such, we will work with clients in Manchester where we will provide strategic communication consulting regarding an issue, problem, or opportunity that they are facing.

Currently, we are reaching out to clients and local public relations agencies in Manchester and will know more about the project topics soon. Ultimately, students who take advantage of this opportunity will be able to legitimately put on their resumes that they have consulted internationally.

Another benefit of studying in Manchester is getting to visit scenic northern, coastal England. From there, students can easily take side trips to Liverpool, Scotland, and Ireland.

COURSES OFFERED:
- PR 6315: Global Public Relations Management
- PR 6315: Strategic Communication Consulting in a Global Environment

Geosciences and Social Media Communication in South Africa

The program will lead students on a 6-week Study Abroad program to South Africa, based around the campus of the University of Pretoria. The program will provide students an integrated experience blending field, classroom and laboratory learning on the occurrence of strategic minerals that underlie the modern, high-technology world economy. Simultaneously, students will study and develop social media communication strategies that will be used to showcase the research and significance of the geoscience project, and to develop materials for use in marketing campaigns and short-documentary films that raise awareness of the global inter-connected science and economics of mineral resources, and advocate for the positive outcomes and societal benefits of international engagement.

COURSES OFFERED:
- GEO 410: Exploration and sustainable development of strategic mineral resources
- JCOMM 433: Science communication in a global context

ESTIMATED PROGRAM FEE: TBD

PROGRAM FEE INCLUDES:
- Lodging
- Round trip airfare from the US
- Local transportation in South Africa for course-related activities
- Field excursions including accommodation and transport
- Cultural excursions including meals, excursions, et cetera
- Insurance

PROGRAM FEE DOES NOT INCLUDE:

RENEWABLE ENERGY – COSTA RICA
Costa Rica receives 99% of the country’s electricity through renewable energy. Costa Rica’s renewable energy portfolio includes hydropower, geothermal energy, biomass energy, solar power, and wind energy. Students will get an opportunity to tour several renewable energy facilities throughout Costa Rica and will get an opportunity to understand the regulatory framework and legal challenges that face the Costa Rica government in continuing to develop renewable energy assets. This is also an opportunity for students to develop an understanding of renewable energy systems outside of the United States and how another country pursues renewable energy interests. Students will also get an opportunity to study at the Texas Tech University – Costa Rica campus in San Jose, Costa Rica.

COURSES OFFERED:

Geosciences and Social Media Communication in South Africa

The program will lead students on a 4-week study abroad program to South Africa, based around the campus of the University of Pretoria. The program will provide students an integrated experience blending field, classroom and laboratory learning on the occurrence of strategic minerals that underlie the modern, high-technology world economy. Simultaneously, students will study and develop social-media communication strategies that will be used to show-case the research and significance of the geoscience project, and to develop materials for use in marketing campaigns and short-documentary items that raise awareness of the global inter-connected science and economics of mineral resources, and advocate for the positive outcomes and societal benefits of international engagement.

COURSES OFFERED:
- GEOG 480: Exploration and sustainable development of strategic mineral resources
- JCOM 480: Science Communication in a Global Context

ESTIMATED PROGRAM FEE: TBD

PROGRAM FEE INCLUDES:
- Lodging
- Local transportation in South Africa for course-related activities
- Field Excursions including accommodation and transport
- Cultural excursions including safari, museum, market.
- Meals during fieldwork
- Tuition fee

PROGRAM FEE DOES NOT INCLUDE:
- Airfare to/from South Africa
- Insurance
- Education abroad fee ($200)
- Meals (on-campus) or in Pretoria
- Personal spending money
- Mandatory health insurance ($235/day)
- Passport and visa costs

HOW TO APPLY:
- Visit: www.studyabroad.ttu.edu
- Applications open 1/13
- Applications will be accepted until February 15, 2013

Math in Italy

The Math in Italy program offers the student a unique opportunity to learn mathematics while exploring and enjoying the culture of Italy. Studies will be conducted at the University of Siena in the historic city of Siena— the site where the great Greek king Pyrrhus "lost the war after winning the battle". Planned excursions (to be confirmed) are to the Fiat Chrysler Automobiles plant, the Iluminando Industries plant, which is a well-known pasta making factory, and the ancient Roman ruins of Pompeii. The excursions enhance the understanding of the course material, which make Mathematics in Italy a unique experience. Historical places to visit nearby are the Santa Sofia Church and the Royal Palace of Caserta (includes Versailles).

COURSES OFFERED:
• Math 3301 Higher Mathematics for Engineers and Scientists I
• Math 2300 Linear Algebra

Housing

Students live with carefully screened local host families. They take care of cooking, cleaning, laundry, and also provide an invaluable source of language, culture, and comfort providing a home away from home.
Student Activities

In addition to formal programming, we offer a series of complimentary activities that contribute to making the overall experience more enjoyable and achieving a more effective integration process into the culture of Sevilla.
Sevillanas

TTU Center offers a weekly Sevillanas class with a dance professor, in which you will learn Sevillanas as well as the Rumba!
Student Activities

In addition to formal programming, we offer a series of complimentary activities that contribute to making the overall experience more enjoyable and achieving a more effective integration process into the culture of Sevilla.
Language Assistants and Tutors

Language Assistants will practice Spanish with students multiple times a week during class time. Every other Wednesday evening, around 8 pm to 9:30 pm, students will have the opportunity to discover Sevilla with the Tutors. You can go with them, have a drink, tapas or walk around Sevilla during the hour and a half while you practice your Spanish with them and see your new city from their perspective!
Student Activities

In addition to formal programming, we offer a series of complimentary activities that contribute to making the overall experience more enjoyable and achieving a more effective integration process into the culture of Sevilla.
Yoga and Mindfulness Class

Dr. Jonathan Deen, the assistant director for the TTU Center in Sevilla, is a certified yoga instructor and dedicates some of his free time each week to engage with our students with yoga and mindfulness sessions.
Student Activities

In additional to formal programming, we offer a series of complimentary activities that contribute to making the overall experience more enjoyable and achieving a more effective integration process into the culture of Sevilla.
Excursions

While you are studying in Seville, The Center offers several excursions for you to discover other parts of Spain and get to know the history and the culture of the country. Some are day trips, like the beach city of Cádiz, or others may include an overnight stay in the city, like Granada. You will get to know the important spots of the city and the importance of those monuments of the city or in the country’s history. Also, you will get free time to discover the cities at your own pace.

Examples of past excursions include Toledo, Madrid, Lagos, and more!

Financial Aid:
SCHOLARSHIP
Study Abroad
Competitive Scholarship (SACS)

Students participating in their ITED programs are eligible to apply for the Study Abroad Competitive Scholarship. Awards generally range from $250 - $500 for the semester. Applications for the summer will be available online at www.studyabroad.msu.edu in October 2022. Applications will be accepted until February 16, 2023.

Financial Aid:
Students eligible for Financial Aid at MSU can use that aid to study abroad. The Study Abroad office will provide the Financial Aid office with a budget for your program. Students should contact Nikki Nickelson at nikki.nickelson@msu.edu to provide detailed information to help with specific financial aid questions.

Global Public Relations in Manchester, England

Experience authentic England by studying and working for 10 days in Manchester, the city that launched the Industrial Revolution. The goal of this study abroad is to help students develop real-world international communication experience. As such, we will work with clients in Manchester where we will provide strategic communication consulting regarding an issue, problem, or opportunity that they are facing.

Currently, we are recruiting not-for-profit and local public relations agencies in Manchester and will know more about the project topics soon. Ultimately, students who take advantage of this opportunity will be able to legitimately put on their resumes that they have consulted internationally.

Another benefit of studying in Manchester is getting to visit scenic northern, coastal England. From there, students can easily take side trips to Liverpool, the Lake District, and Ireland.

Courses Offered:
- PR 6335: Global Public Relations Management
- PR 6335: Strategic Communication Consulting in a Global Environment

Estimated Program Fee: $4,345
- Contact the Study Abroad Office

Program Fee includes:
- Lodging
- Meals
- Program Fee does not include:
  - Tuition and fees
  - Airfare in/from England
  - Meals
  - Personal travel money
  - Education Abroad fee (2,000)
  - Mandatory Insurance (22.75/day)

Program Dates:
- Spring: January 12-22, 2023
- Summer: June 16-26, 2023

Program Open To:
- MSU students (preference goes to graduate students)

MEDIA AND COMMUNICATION IN LONDON

This study abroad program provides students two courses (6 hours credit total) focusing on social media brand strategy and integrated communications in London, UK. The program plan includes student activities focusing on the London-based media and communications industry as well as London area cultural and historical attractions.

COURSES OFFERED:

-PR 4301 Special Topics: Social Media Brand Strategy: This course provides students insight into the use of social media with a brand strategy focus. Concepts addressed will include the role of planning, consistent integrated communication messaging, executing continuous engagement, monitoring activity, and metrics analysis. Students will also engage in an evaluation of the growing role of Influencer Marketing as a component of building brand recognition.

-PR 4301 Special Topics in Public Relations: Integrated Communications: A Global Perspective: Students will learn firsthand how public relations fits into the marketing mix and the challenges and benefits of an integrated communications approach. Students will visit London-based PR and advertising firms and will keep a journal of activities and observations of how strategic public relations is practiced in a global context.

RENEWABLE ENERGY – COSTA RICA

Costa Rica receives 99% of the country’s electricity through renewable energy. Costa Rica’s renewable energy portfolio includes hydroelectricity, geothermal energy, biomass energy, solar power, and wind energy. Students will get an opportunity to tour several renewable energy facilities throughout Costa Rica and will get an opportunity to understand the regulatory framework and legal challenges that face the Costa Rican government in continuing to develop renewable energy assets. This is also an opportunity for students to develop an understanding of renewable energy systems outside of the United States and how another country pursues renewable energy interests. Students will also get an opportunity to study at the Texas Tech University Costa Rica campus in San Jose, Costa Rica.

COURSES OFFERED:
WE 4320: Independent Study in Wind Energy

Summer Virtual Internship Program 2020 | Testimonials

Eric Mechanical Engineering Internship at LACE
Gardea TTU Engineering

If I could put the experience in two words, they would be fun and growth. The program was structured beautifully so that we as students could participate in a variety of fun Brazilian activities while developing our professional skills at the same time. I got to learn how to have a conversation in Portuguese, I was introduced to a variety of people from all over the world, and I got to learn about the Brazilian music & history. While this was going on, I was able to build a really close connection with my team working on our project for LACE. We were able to talk to each other from across the world and collaborate on something that I believe the company is really able to build upon. It taught me more about myself and more about how things work in the business world, outside of engineering. Although I wasn't actually able to visit Sao Paulo, I feel like CampusB did an amazing job of bringing the experience to me. It was a summer that I will not soon forget. I am grateful for everything and everybody who participated, and I look forward to visiting Brazil very soon.

Study Abroad in Geosciences and Social Media Communication

Geosciences and Social Media Communication in South Africa

The program will lead students on a 4-week Study Abroad program to South Africa, based around the campus of the University of Pretoria. The program will provide students an integrated experience blending field, classroom and laboratory learning on the occurrence of strategic minerals that underlie the modern, high-technology world economy. Simultaneously, students will study and develop social media communication strategies that will be used to show-case the research and significance of the geoscience project, and to develop materials for use in marketing campaigns and short-documentary items that raise awareness of the global inter-connected science and economics of mineral resources, and advocate for the positive outcomes and societal benefits of international engagement.

COURSES OFFERED:
- GEOL 480K - Exploration and sustainable development of strategic mineral resources
- JCOM 481K - Science Communication in a Global Context

ESTIMATED PROGRAM FEE: TBD

PROGRAM FEE INCLUDES:
- Lodging
- Local transportation in South Africa for course-related activities
- Field Excursions including accommodation and transport
- Cultural excursions including data collection, museums, markets.
- Meals during fieldwork

PROGRAM FEE DOES NOT INCLUDE:
- TTU Tuition of fees
- Airfare to/from South Africa
- Insurance
- Transportation to/from Pretoria
- Personal spending money
- Mandatory health insurance (US$35/day)
- Passport and visa costs

HOW TO APPLY:
Visit www.international.ttu.edu
Application opens 1/13

PROGRAM OPEN TO: All TTU students who have completed four General Science with a lab one credit requirement.

PROGRAM DATES: Summer 2021

Student Identity Abroad

Adjusting to a new culture is an inevitable transition in study abroad and your background and identity may be treated differently than you expect. Understanding how these perceptions can influence your study abroad experience can go a long way toward better understanding of yourself and the new culture in which you'll live. Remember - we are all multi-faceted human beings and as such, we encourage you to review any and all topics with which you identify.

"I am a first generation, Black female with a high financial need. I would advise others like me to never give up, even if the circumstances seem impossible. I had no idea how I would fund my trip or what it would even look like once I got there, but I did it and it is the best thing that's ever happened to me." - Kaevyn Maple | South Korea 2019
Accessibility

One of the most popular myths surrounding studying abroad is that students who experience disability cannot participate, but Texas Tech students with different abilities and needs work with our office to study abroad every single year. While we cannot guarantee that any or all of our program sites can accommodate your unique needs or interests, we will do our best to inform you of your options. We will work to provide you with resources, some of which are listed here.

Abroad with Disabilities - https://www.facebook.com/AbroadWithDisabilities

Texas Tech Student Disability Services

We include discussion in advising appointments and pre-departure orientation about accessibility issues abroad, and differences in host country attitudes for students with emotional, mental, learning, and/or physical disabilities.

Cultural Adjustment

Transitioning to a new place, time zone, culture, and university is challenging. At the same time, challenges give students opportunities to develop critical adult skills such as complex ways of thinking, problem solving, and self-care. Recognizing the obvious and less overt emotions that accompany study abroad students' cultural adjustment are paramount to your personal and academic success. During pre-departure orientation, we will help you identify signs and challenges of cultural shock and equip you with tools to combat them.

Dating & Sex

All students, regardless of gender or sexual orientation, should be aware that the ways people interact vary widely by region and country, and issues around dating and sex can be particularly difficult in a cross-cultural setting. Details like eye contact, body language, and the way one dresses can send different messages within a host culture. Observing interpersonal interactions within your host country can be useful in helping you choose the way you communicate verbally and non-verbally with others in that country. During pre-departure orientation, we’ll walk you through some important things to remember.

First Generation

As the first in your family to attend college or university, you may feel you’ve already taken a big enough step toward success. Additionally, you may think that studying abroad is an unreachable goal. However, first generation college students have a proven track record of forging new paths and are often uniquely positioned to succeed abroad. In fact, about 20% of all TTU students who study abroad are first generation college students.

Gender & Sexual Orientation

Students who study abroad often discover that people who were raised in other countries are prepared differently for social roles. We welcome students of all genders, gender expressions, and sexual orientations who meet TTU Study Abroad eligibility requirements to participate in our programs. In addition to some of the resources listed here, we will provide you with valuable knowledge during pre-departure orientation.

High Financial Need

The Study Abroad team encourages all students to build study abroad into their TTU degree plan. We welcome students of all socioeconomic statuses who meet TTU Study Abroad eligibility requirements to participate in our programs. Many students mistakenly believe that study abroad is financially out of reach. The key is to plan early and, as you plan, consider how you will balance your goals for studying abroad with the realities of your financial situation.

“Perhaps my biggest concern when going through the study abroad process was whether or not I would be able to afford my desired program. I would recommend other students dedicate as much time as possible to finding and applying to as many scholarships as possible. Many scholarship prompts ask the same or similar questions, so essays can be reused for multiple scholarships with some editing and tailoring to each scholarship done. By combining scholarships I already had from Tech and applying to a multitude of external scholarships, both general and study abroad specific, I was able to attend the program I desired.”

Military Veterans & ROTC

As military veterans and cadets, you have demonstrated your commitment to representing the U.S. at home and overseas. As students, you are able to use veteran- and cadet-specific funding sources to study and see the world in a different way. We recognize the challenges and unique cultural barriers of studying abroad for student veterans and ROTC students, but it is our belief that military veterans and cadets bring unique assets to study abroad. In addition to our work with the Texas Tech MVP office, we work to provide resources like the examples listed here.

ROTC cadets at TTU are encouraged by their commanding officers to study abroad as a General Military Cadet (GMC). Specifically, GMCs are encouraged to study abroad during the summer term after two semesters on campus (between first year student and sophomore years). If a GMC's academic program requires study abroad (e.g., the Whitacre College of Engineering), then a semester-long program is approved by ROTC at TTU.

We partner with Department of Defense programs like Project Global Officer that are committed to providing support and scholarships to ROTC students for critical languages study abroad.

Race & Ethnicity

Students who study abroad may find that physical features which distinguish them from the host population may result in questions, stares, comments, or sometimes overt prejudice. As a Student of Color, you may have some specific concerns regarding studying abroad. The Study Abroad team believes these concerns should be addressed early and should not prevent you from studying abroad if it is your desire to do so. TTU Study Abroad staff as well as program staff abroad can advise racially and ethnically diverse students about how to minimize negative interactions during study abroad.

“Going abroad was one of the best decisions that I made during my time at Texas Tech. Initially, I was intimidated because my race is different than the locals in my host country, but ultimately it enhanced my experience. The people were very welcoming and desired to know more about me beyond the color of my skin. It was amazing to see how much the locals and I had in common despite our surface-level differences. I came to realize through my experience abroad that even with our unique cultures and experiences, we shared many of the same ideas, values, and interests.”

Student Identity Abroad

Adjusting to a new culture is an inevitable transition in study abroad and your background and identity may be treated differently than you expect. Understanding how these perceptions can influence your study abroad experience can go a long way toward better understanding of yourself and the new culture in which you'll live. Remember - we are all multi-faceted human beings and as such, we encourage you to review any and all topics with which you identify.

"I am a first generation, Black female with a high financial need. I would advise others like me to never give up, even if the circumstances seem impossible. I had no idea how I would fund my trip or what it would even look like once I got there, but I did it and it is the best thing that's ever happened to me." - Kaevyn Maple | South Korea 2019
Religion & Spirituality

Students who study abroad often discover varying levels of commitment to religious diversity and freedom in other countries, which can lead to a better understanding of their own notions about religion and spirituality. It is a good idea to research religion in your host country before you study abroad to find out the role it plays in society as well as what degree of religious tolerance exists. Maybe you are accustomed to being part of the religious majority at home but will be part of the religious minority while living abroad. Will it be safe for you to wear religious symbols and/or clothing? How are atheists perceived? By going abroad, you'll gain a new perspective on religion and return home more familiar with other belief systems. In addition to the resources provided in pre-departure orientation and advising, we also encourage students to utilize a few of the listed resources.

If you experience an emergency while traveling abroad, immediately seek local assistance. You can contact Texas Tech and the University's international insurance provider 24/7 for help.

Before going abroad, be sure to download important TTU emergency contact information to your phone. It is your responsibility to have this contact information at hand in the case of an emergency. At least one test of the emergency contact system will be conducted while you are abroad and your response is important to us.

Staying in Touch

One way to help reduce feelings of homesickness is to keep communication open with parents, family, guardians, mentors, children, and friends back home.

Connecting across continents and time zones can be tricky, and you may be used to frequent or even daily contact with your loved ones. Before you go abroad, it’s a good idea to think about how you will communicate – and how often. It is important to stay in touch but not to the extent that it interferes with your experience abroad. You may need to separate yourself a bit from your home support networks as you build a local one.
