You can become a Study Abroad Peer Advisor!

The Study Abroad Peer Advisors (SAPA) are a student organization comprised of students with international experience through studying, researching, interning or serving abroad. At the core of SAPA is a desire to promote international experience and encourage peers at Texas Tech to take the leap and learn abroad. Peer Advisors share a love for learning abroad and an agreement on the array of personal and academic benefits that come from participating in a study abroad experience.

SAPA hopes to advocate for learning abroad and help anyone interested in going abroad to achieve that goal. This is done primarily through advising via office hours in the Office of International Affairs (OIA). As SAPA are encouraging and assisting prospective study abroad students, SAPA provides an opportunity for students who have been abroad to get connected and network with students at Texas Tech with shared experiences. They work in conjunction with the OIA and faculty advisors to fit in as one small piece in a multifaceted system to support prospective study abroad students.

SAPA accepts members on a rolling basis throughout the year, but applications for the fall should be submitted by Friday, August 13 to ensure ample time to prepare for the new semester. The interest form should be submitted to studyabroadpeeradvisorsttu@gmail.com.

Attached to the email is the Interest Form if you would like to be a Peer Advisor.
