Family Dynamics and Educational Processes in Central Europe

This course is an examination of the family dynamics of addiction and recovery. Specific reference to understanding the factors and influences of substance abuse/dependence, addiction, and the process of recovery in Central Europe is covered. The course also covers personal/familial factors of addiction and highlights those personal and familial factors that contribute to substance abuse, addiction, and recovery. Students will have the opportunity to attend historical sites as well as recovery meetings in Prague and the surrounding areas. Prague is easy to navigate and is located on the banks of the beautiful Vltava River. The city is rich in political, cultural, and economic history. Given its diversity and importance in the history of central Europe, Prague is the ideal place to spend your summer.

Program Open to:

Students who are members of the Center for Collegiate Recovery Communities, Community Family and Addiction Sciences majors, Students minoring in Addictive Disorders and Recovery Studies and CFAS or HDFS students who wish to experience an international summer practicum placement in a treatment center and growing recovery community.
