

Texas Tech University School of Law, Lubbock, Texas – Faculty Position 1

Texas Tech University School of Law invites applications from exceptional individuals to fill an open faculty position beginning with the 2023-24 academic year (Requisition #29108BR). The position is open to candidates who would be on the tenure-track or who are tenured at another law school. Anticipated curricular needs are varied but will likely include courses in Constitutional Law and Civil Rights.

Applicants must possess a J.D. degree and have a commitment to or demonstrated record of scholarly distinction, exemplary teaching, and institutional or public service. Experience working with diverse student populations or first-generation law students is highly desirable. Service to the School of Law and University is expected and may include relevant extracurricular activities. Although we recognize that external funding opportunities have traditionally been limited in legal academia, candidates who have strong records of scholarship supported by extramural funding or who have the proven capacity or clear potential to bring externally sponsored research to Texas Tech University are encouraged to apply.

Texas Tech University, located in Lubbock, Texas, is a state-supported National Research University with an enrollment that exceeds 40,000 students. In addition, Texas Tech University is a Hispanic-Serving Institution (HSI). The law school has approximately 420 students and 38 full-time faculty members. The law school is an integral part of the University and offers 10 dual-degree programs with other Texas Tech schools and colleges. The Lubbock metropolitan area is home to over 300,000 people, enjoys affordable housing, abundant sunshine, friendly people, and offers easy access to other parts of the country. For more information, visit our website at <http://www.depts.ttu.edu/law/>.

As an Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, Texas Tech University is dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse faculty committed to teaching and working in a multicultural environment. We actively encourage applications from all those who can contribute through their research, teaching, and/or service, to the diversity and excellence of the academic community at Texas Tech University. The University welcomes applications from minoritized candidates, women, protected veterans, persons with disabilities, and dual-career couples.

Please submit your cover letter, resume, and contact information for at least three professional references electronically at the Texas Tech Jobs website: <https://www.depts.ttu.edu/hr/workattexastech/> to the attention of Brian D. Shannon, Horn Distinguished Professor and Chair, Faculty Appointments Committee. You may also contact Professor Shannon at brian.shannon@ttu.edu, but for your application to be considered, you must submit it at the Texas Tech Jobs website. Submission of applications is preferred by September 30, 2022.

Texas Tech University School of Law, Lubbock, Texas – Faculty Position 2

Texas Tech University School of Law invites applications from exceptional individuals to fill an open faculty position beginning with the 2023-24 academic year (Requisition #29109BR). The position is open to candidates who would be on the tenure-track or who are tenured at another law school. Although the position is not restricted to any particular area of the law, our projected curricular needs—while varied—may include courses in Torts and Intellectual Property.

Applicants must possess a J.D. degree and have a commitment to or demonstrated record of scholarly distinction, exemplary teaching, and institutional or public service. Experience working with diverse student populations or first-generation law students is highly desirable. Service to the School of Law and University is expected and may include relevant extracurricular activities. Although we recognize that external funding opportunities have traditionally been limited in legal academia, candidates who have strong records of scholarship supported by extramural funding or who have the proven capacity or clear potential to bring externally sponsored research to Texas Tech University are encouraged to apply.

Texas Tech University, located in Lubbock, Texas, is a state-supported National Research University with an enrollment that exceeds 40,000 students. In addition, Texas Tech University is a Hispanic-Serving Institution (HSI). The law school has approximately 420 students and 38 full-time faculty members. The law school is an integral part of the University and offers 10 dual-degree programs with other Texas Tech schools and colleges. The Lubbock metropolitan area is home to over 300,000 people, enjoys affordable housing, abundant sunshine, friendly people, and offers easy access to other parts of the country. For more information, visit our website at <http://www.depts.ttu.edu/law/>.

As an Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, Texas Tech University is dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse faculty committed to teaching and working in a multicultural environment. We actively encourage applications from all those who can contribute through their research, teaching, and/or service, to the diversity and excellence of the academic community at Texas Tech University. The University welcomes applications from minoritized candidates, women, protected veterans, persons with disabilities, and dual-career couples.

Please submit your cover letter, resume, and contact information for at least three professional references electronically at the Texas Tech Jobs website: <https://www.depts.ttu.edu/hr/workattexastech/> to the attention of Brian D. Shannon, Horn Distinguished Professor and Chair, Faculty Appointments Committee. You may also contact Professor Shannon at brian.shannon@ttu.edu, but for your application to be considered, you must submit it at the Texas Tech Jobs website. Submission of applications is preferred by September 30, 2022.