Medium-Form Scholarship in Tax Notes

Tax Notes is the premiere journal of news, commentary and analysis relating to federal income tax. It is in a weekly magazine format and is regularly read by those in academia, private practice, and government service.

For 2024, Tax Notes was ranked #1 in journal citations, and #4 in combined impact out of 45 U.S. tax journals tracked in the Washington and Lee online rankings, (<https://managementtools4.wlu.edu/LawJournals/Default.aspx>).

My Tax Notes articles are shorter than traditional law review articles but contain the same intellectual content. They just omit all the front-loading used to put the main intellectual meat of an article in a context accessible to the non-specialized readers. Here, the readers already have that context (or most of it). The articles are read and incorporated into the thinking of tax academics and court opinions.

28. Taxation of Gambling After OBBBA.

--- Tax Notes --- (---- 2025)(7,100 words)(explaining how this legislation changed key concepts on the treatment of gambling losses).

27. Predicting the ‘Whether’ of Section 7508A(d), with Keith Fogg (co-author)

171 Tax Notes 315 (April 19, 2021)(6,000 words)(analyzing IRS proposed regulations implementing §7508A(d)).

26. The Sharp Corners of ACA Premium Tax Credit Provisions

163 Tax Notes 2001 (June 24, 2019)(4,200 words)(critiquing Tax Court’s interpretation of the interplay between §36B and §86).

25. Equitable Doctrines and Jurisdictional Time Periods, Part 2

159 Tax Notes 1581 (June 11, 2018)(8,700 words)(showing how Tax Court uses equitable principles to fictionalize facts to expand jurisdictional time periods).

24. An Emerging Trend in Summons Proceedings?

157 Tax Notes 1071 (February 26, 2018) (3,600 words)(examining whether three recent circuit court decisions are departing from Supreme Court guidance).

23. Equitable Doctrines and Jurisdictional Time Periods, Part 1

156 Tax Notes 1397 (September 11, 2017) (8,400 words) (arguing that equitable principles can apply to jurisdictional time periods).

22. Collecting Tax Liabilities from Third Parties

151 Tax Notes 1549 (September 12, 2016) (8,600 words) (explaining intricacies of three overlapping theories of collection).

21. How the IRS Can Regulate Return Preparers Without New Law

148 Tax Notes 1355 (September 21, 2015) (12,200 words) (suggesting different way to think about regulating return preparers than the way invalidated by the D.C. Circuit in Loving)

20. "Loving" Return Preparer Regulation

140 Tax Notes 457 (July 29, 2013) (12,000 words)(critiquing district court decision in Loving v. IRS that struck down Treasury regulation regulating return preparers, and examining legal history of statute and words used in the statute authorizing regulation).

19. Jesus and the Anti-Injunction Act

136 Tax Notes 1335 (Sept. 10, 2012) (14,000 words)(Using legal history to support a critique of the Supreme Court's weak literalist interpretation of the Anti-Injunction Act in National Federation of Businesses v. Sebelius).

18. Interpreting Statutory Silence

128 Tax Notes 501 (August 2, 2010)(17,000 words)(exploring the application of Chevron to interpreting the Tax Code and the role of courts in reviewing Treasury regulations in the context of a specific controversy about I.R.C. §6015, the Innocent Spouse provisions).

17. What Good is the National Taxpayer Advocate?

126 Tax Notes 1243 (March 8, 2010)(15,000 words)(reviewing and critiquing the role of the National Taxpayer Service in tax administration).

16. Presumptions and Tax Return Preparer Fraud

120 Tax Notes 167 (July 17, 2008) (12,500 words) (exploring doctrinal and policy arguments for and against attributing tax return preparer fraud to innocent taxpayers and critiquing recent Tax Court case on the subject).

15. Proceduralist Reflections on Home Mortgage Foreclosures

117 Tax Notes 483 (October 29, 2007)(6,000 words)(commenting on the futility of proposed legislation to provide relief for the targeted taxpayer population because of procedural barriers).

14. Tax Return Preparer Fraud and the Assessment Limitation Period

116 Tax Notes 687 (August 20, 2007) (12,500 words) (reviewing the interplay of the assessment limitation period with fraud penalties and their intertwined statutory history since 1862).

13. The Mysteries of Erroneous Refunds

114 Tax Notes 231 (January 15, 2007) (17,000 words) (critiquing the growth of a legal doctrine that prevents the IRS from administratively collecting refunds issued in error).

12. The Function of Forms in the Substitute-For-Return Process

111 Tax Notes 1511 (June 26, 2006) (13,000 words) (explaining the SFR process, exploring its implications for the legal definition of “return” and critiquing an IRS reversal of position).

11. The Never-Ending Battle

111 Tax Notes 373 (April 17, 2006) (12,500 words) (analyzing the tension between formalist and functionalist construction of statutory provisions related to the meaning of the term “return”).

10. The Function of Forms

110 Tax Notes 531 (January 30, 2006) (12,500 words) (critiquing recent 7th Circuit opinion on the non-dischargability of taxes for “unfiled” returns in bankruptcy).

9. The Equal Protection Problem in Innocent Spouse Procedures

112 Tax Notes 281 (July 17, 2006) (14,000 words) (spotting a constitutional problem created by the interplay of three seemingly unrelated legal doctrines; Congress fixed the problem shortly after the article came out).

8. The Unhappy Marriage of Law and Equity in Joint Return Liability

108 Tax Notes 1307 (September 12, 2005) (14,500 words) (exploring the tension between competing tax policies in context of reviewing the statutory history of relevant provisions from 1913 to present).

7. Between a Rock and a Hard Place

108 Tax Notes 359 (July 18, 2005) (14,500 words) (critiquing the Tax Court’s jurisprudence on innocent spouse relief from tax liability in section 6105).

6. Replacing CDP

107 Tax Notes 1039 (May 23, 2005) (10,000 words) (exploring what true “due process” means in an inquisitorial regime).

5. The Costs of CDP

105 Tax Notes 1445 (December 6, 2004) (9,000 words) (arguing the theoretical disadvantages to the Collection Due Process provisions).

4. The Failure of Collection Due Process, Pt. 2: Why It Adds No Value

104 Tax Notes 1567 (September 27, 2004) (6,000 words) (giving a theoretical account for why CDP is a poor fit with traditional tax collection process).

3. Failure of Collection Due Process, Pt. 1: The Collection Context

104 Tax Notes 969 (August 30, 2004) (9,000 words) (explaining the tax collection part of tax administration, and introducing the concepts of “can’t-pays” and “won’t-pays” in the tax collection).

2. The Evil That Men Do Lives After Them...

104 Tax Notes 439 (July 26, 2004) (5,500 words) (analyzing the political rhetoric used in the 1998 IRS Reform Act legislation).

1. The Inquisitorial Process of Tax Administration

103 Tax Notes 1549 (June 21, 2004) (8,000 words) (reviewing the reasons for the inquisitorial features of tax administration).
