Welcome to the Osher Lifelong Learning Institute at Texas Tech University!

At Texas Tech University, we aspire to provide students an experience that is transformative, one that promotes intellectual curiosity, and promotes life-long learning.

The Osher Lifelong Learning Institute at Texas Tech University embodies these attributes. It offers unique opportunities for local citizens of more than 50 years of age who have a common interest in continuing their learning experiences and intellectual stimulation in an organization of like-minded people who value the joy of learning.

Many individuals have taken advantage of the offerings afforded through this exciting program. Courses are developed by peers with the goal of providing a high quality learning experience accessible to all. In addition, OLLI membership provides an opportunity for social interaction and new friendships with members who bring a lifetime of personal and professional experience to class.

I welcome and encourage your participation in this program that will provide opportunities to grow intellectually and socially.

Sincerely,

Lawrence Schovanec, Ph.D.
President.

The Osher Foundation

The Bernard Osher Foundation, headquartered in San Francisco, was founded in 1977 by Bernard Osher, a respected businessman and community leader. The Foundation seeks to improve quality of life through support for higher education and the arts. Mr. Osher is a community-oriented businessman whose philanthropy created Osher Lifelong Learning Institutes (OLLI) across the country. Our OLLI is in a network of 119 lifelong learning programs on university and college campuses across the country, with at least one grantee in each of the 50 states and the District of Columbia.

OLLI owes its existence to Bernard and Barbro Osher, whose vision and continuing moral and financial support of lifelong learning is unprecedented and unparalleled. We are very fortunate and proud to have an OLLI at Texas Tech University.

Our Mission

The mission of Osher Lifelong Learning Institute (OLLI) at Texas Tech University is to provide enjoyable and stimulating non-credit learning and cultural opportunities for its members.

What is Osher Lifelong Learning Institute (OLLI)?

OLLI began as a continuing education program at Texas Tech University in 2002-2003 as Texas Tech Lifelong Learning. In 2008, endowment support was received from the Bernard Osher Foundation. In recognition of its affiliation with the Osher Foundation and as one of 119 such institutes nationwide, Texas Tech Lifelong Learning was re-named Osher Lifelong Learning Institute (OLLI) at Texas Tech University. We are self-sustaining, supported through membership dues, class fees, an endowment from the Bernard Osher Foundation, donations and in-kind support from Texas Tech University. No tests, no grades, no research papers – Just intellectual stimulation.

What are the requirements to join?

Everyone age 50 and older may join.
The only prerequisite is a desire to learn.

What does membership cost?

Membership is $35 per person, valid from September to July, and does not include cost of individual courses.

Who teaches OLLI classes?

Most of our classes are taught by distinguished professors, both active and retired. Other instructors are experts in their fields, university doctoral students or OLLI members. There is one common denominator: they teach because they enjoy education and OLLI students.

How do I sign up?

Below are the methods to register for memberships, classes and other events:

- Get a 3% discount if you pay online! Using a credit card, register online through our website www.lli.ttu.edu. We accept VISA, MasterCard, and Discover.
- Memberships or classes with food, transportation or supplies are not eligible for the discount.
- Mail registration form in catalog or printed from OLLI website www.lli.ttu.edu with a check to OLLI, P.O. Box 45001, Lubbock, Texas 79409-5001 or bring into the OLLI office.

What if I have to cancel my registration?

Because space in classes is limited please let the office know as soon as possible if you need to cancel a class registration. It is important that you are aware that canceling any class requiring bus transportation, food or supplies will result in loss of the registration fee unless the member is able to find a replacement to attend in their place.

For all other classes, we ask that members let us know of their cancellation at least 4 days in advance to be eligible to receive a credit transfer to be applied to another class or a refund. Members may also choose to donate their refund if they wish to support OLLI operations. We do provide full refunds on a case-by-case basis for illness, medical emergencies etc. Membership fees cannot be credited or refunded.

What happens for weather or other emergency cancellations?

OLLI follows the same policy as Texas Tech University for cancellations because of weather or other acts of nature or emergencies. If TTU classes are canceled, OLLI classes are also canceled. Postings can be found at www.emergency.ttu.edu as well as on local television or radio stations. OLLI reserves the right to substitute instructors, rearrange class schedules, or cancel classes because of low enrollment or illness. In case of class cancellation or a schedule change, you will be notified and may receive a credit for another class in the same semester or a refund.

Where is the OLLI office?

Our office is in the McKenzie-Merket Alumni Center at 17th & University Avenue, Lubbock, Texas. Our email is lli@ttu.edu, and our phone number is 806.742.OLLI (6554).

Spring Kick-Off

Looking Ahead – State of the World in 2017

America's new President will face a number of serious international challenges -- some left over from previous administrations, and others erupting now. This presentation will be a roundup of the globe's current and expected hot button geopolitical issues including Russia and Europe, China and Asia, the Middle East, and the ongoing problems of terrorism. We will also look back to see 2016's hits and misses, as well as look forward to gain an appreciation of the intricacies and interconnectedness of the globe we call home. A time for questions and discussion will follow lecture.

Instructor: Ambassador Tibor Nagy is Vice Provost for International Affairs at Texas Tech University and lectures nationally on Africa, foreign policy, international development, and U.S. diplomacy. He has also advised U.S. Presidential candidates during the current and past two election campaigns on African policy. Before coming to TTU, he served as U.S. Ambassador to Ethiopia and Guinea, and deputy ambassador in Nigeria, Cameroon and Togo. Ambassador Nagy came to the U.S. as a political refugee from Hungary, and received his B.A. from Texas Tech and M.S.A. from George Washington University, and was in the U.S. Diplomatic Service from 1978-2003.

Film: Standing in the Shadow of Motown

In Los Angeles, the studio musicians who played on almost all of the pop hits being recorded were known collectively as "The Wrecking Crew." Barry Gordy, founder of Detroit's Motown Records, assembled a similar group of professional musicians that became known as the Funk Brothers. They played on hit records for The Temptations, the Four Tops, The Supremes, Smokey Robinson & the Miracles, Marvin Gaye, the Jackson Five, and all the other Motown artists. If you love Motown, come and meet the musicians who "made the magic!"

Instructor: Larry Hess, M.M., is a retired Lubbock ISD educator. He is also a professional musician having retired after 30 years as a percussionist with the Lubbock Symphony Orchestra. Not only is he a member of OLLI, he now serves on the Lubbock Advisory Board.

Dates: February 2, 2017

Do You Have Annoying Neighbors?

We love the majority of our neighbors but, let's admit, we have "issues" with a few of them. Are you disturbed by the neighbors' loud music or television preferences, their pet's daily lawn offerings, or maybe their wild love-making sessions with the shades open? Does your neighbor refuse to repair the ugly and broken-down fence between your properties? Are you disgusted with the dozens of plastic pink flamingos or other artistic expressions in their front yard? Are you irritated about your neighbor's trees which overhang your property and litter your yard with leaves and acorns? Let's take a look at property annoyances in an informational and light-hearted session with Dr. Gerry W. Beyer. What can [and can't] you do? Revenge is not an option.

Instructor: Gerry Beyer, J.D., LL.M., J.S.D., is the Governor Preston E. Smith Regents Professor of Law at the Texas Tech University School of Law. He is a highly acclaimed and nationally recognized expert in estate planning who was recently inducted into the Estate Planning Hall of Fame. Since 2000, he has won over 20 teaching awards from three universities including the Chancellor's Distinguished Teaching Award and the President's Excellence in Teaching Award.

Cash'd Out: Tribute to Johnny Cash

The legendary music and persona of "The Man in Black" are brought to life by Cash'd Out, a nationally-recognized touring tribute band celebrating Johnny Cash and all of his classic hits. The band's live shows respectfully recreate the late, great recording legend's earliest successes at Sun Records with classics such as "I Walk the Line" and combines the energy of the early Columbia-era hits like "Ring of Fire" with the classic multi-platinum live recordings from Folsom Prison and San Quentin. The group's authentic recreation of the music of Johnny Cash and its universal appeal makes each Cash'd Out show a must-see event. We will start the evening with a presentation from the new Cactus owner, Darryl Holland, have dinner at Triple J and then return to the Cactus for the show.

Hosted by: Darryl Holland, owner and director of the historic Cactus Theater located at 1812 Buddy Holly Ave. in the Depot District. A lifelong resident of Lubbock, he is a music promoter and local entrepreneur with concentrated emphasis on nostalgia and all things Americana.

The Art of Storytelling

OLLI members who attend the Art of Storytelling will learn the principles of storytelling from national storyteller Eric Strong, as he utilizes peace tales, folktales, personal stories, and his signature stories of hope, tolerance and self-esteem to illustrate basic techniques for engaging audiences, crafting stories, and understanding the importance of storytelling in the social fabric of our humanity. Workshop attendees are encouraged to bring their own life stories to work on and share.

Instructor: Eric Emerson Strong holds a Bachelor's from Prairie View A&M and a Master's from Texas Tech University. He has been a professional storyteller for over 25 years, with appearances on NPR, BBC, and the Discovery Channel. Strong won Writer's League of Texas Oral Storytelling Champion in 2007 and was crowned 2011 King of the West Texas Liars. In 2013, he was named a finalist in the Stand Your Ground Against Violence National Storytelling Competition.

An Afternoon Visit to Africa

African art is very revealing of life and culture on that continent. Take a guided tour of the collection at the home of Tibor and Jane Nagy, and learn about important African values and symbols as represented in several art forms. Then, enjoy a taste of Africa, as you share some of their adventures through nearly 25 years of life in 8 postings on this fascinating continent. This armchair tour will leave you with a greater appreciation of a world far removed from West Texas.

Instructor: Jane Nagy, M.A., lived and traveled around Africa for almost 25 years, learning to appreciate the culture and art of this fascinating part of the world. She is pleased to be able to share the art, the food, the culture and the adventure. She is a member of OLLI and serves on its advisory board.

Enrollment is limited to 25 participants.

Eastern Women Artists in the American West: Georgia O'Keeffe, Elaine de Kooning, and Nancy Holt

This course will address how American women artists in the twentieth century found unexpected freedom, independence, and new aesthetic styles in the Middle-American West, a region too often overlooked in narratives of modern art that tend to focus on the coastal regions as the primary art centers. We will look specifically at three women—Georgia O'Keeffe, Elaine de Kooning, and Nancy Holt—who were trained in Eastern America, but who spent significant portions of their life in middle America, including West Texas, where they discovered new teaching opportunities, new markets and patronage, and new inspirations based on the vast expanses of the American High Plains.

Instructor: Amy Von Lintel, Ph.D., received her BA from the University of Kansas, her MA from Southern Methodist University, and her Ph.D. from the University of Southern California. Her research has been generously supported by her home institution as well as the American Association of University Women, the Friends of the Princeton University Library, and the Georgia O'Keeffe Museum. She currently lives in Amarillo, Texas with her husband, two adopted daughters, one foster son, and their baset hound puppy, Fred.

I Survived – Reflections of a Kidnapped Doctor

In September 2011, Anatomy of a Kidnapping, Dr. Berk's inspiring personal account of surviving an abduction in 2005, was published and received the Book of the Year Silver Award in 2011 given by True Crime, adult non-fiction. He was honored with the Boston University Distinguished Alumni Award in 2012. That same year, University Medical Center in Lubbock established the Steven Berk Endowed Chair in Medical Excellence.

Join Dr. Berk as he discusses the writing of his book, Anatomy of a Kidnapping, his reflections on crime, drugs and guns and his explanation of the Oslerian principle of Aequanimitas - what it means in the practice of medicine and how it helped him through his kidnapping.

Instructor: Steven Lee Berk, M.D., was appointed Dean of the School of Medicine in 2006 and the Executive Vice President and Provost, Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center, in 2010. Dr. Berk graduated from Boston University School of Medicine and completed his Internal Medicine residency and Infectious Disease fellowship at Boston City Hospital. He is board certified in Internal Medicine and Infectious Disease with a certificate of added qualification in Geriatrics.

Food Security and Scarcity: Why Ending Hunger is so Hard

Food Security and Scarcity will look at hunger and food insecurity in our own backyard. Hunger hurts the most vulnerable members of our communities. The United States Department of Agriculture estimates that more than 93,000 citizens living in the South Plains are food insecure. Hunger robs them of energy, dignity, and hope. "Food Security and Scarcity" will define food insecurity, investigate its causes, highlight the impact it has on individuals and our community, as well as ways to end hunger.

The class will include a tour of the South Plains Food Bank's new home at the J. T. and Margaret Talkington Distribution Center.

Instructor: David Weaver, M.A. M.Div., is the CEO of the South Plains Food Bank, a position he has held since 1997. He holds both a B. A. in Sociology and a M.A. in Theater Arts as well as a M.Div. from Midwestern Baptist Theological Seminary. A Lubbock native, he is married to Keren. They have one daughter, Grace.

What do Wes Welker, Texas Tech Football, and Planning a Trip for Over 100 People Have in Common?

Do you love your job? Can you say your "claim to fame" was Wes Welker? Do you like to travel? Come hear Coach Tommy McVay talk about life as the Texas Tech University Football Director of Operations. You can expect topics such as a few ins and outs of football recruiting, the reason Texas Tech doesn't wear just red and black, and what it's like to plan an out of town trip for the Texas Tech football team and staff. You will have an opportunity to learn about success on and off the field and to ask those questions you always wanted to ask about what it has been like to work with four different head football coaches at Texas Tech! Coach McVay has a great sense of humor and loves Texas Tech. His passion will get you fired up about those Red Raiders!

"Great, fun, informative class! Will probably be my favorite of the semester!"

The Work of a U.S. Ambassador – More than Pushing Cookies!

The popular image of an ambassador is someone in striped pants attending receptions, fancy dinners, and high-level meetings. This presentation will debunk that myth and lay out exactly what U.S. ambassadors do in conducting their overall mission for the U.S. President, in managing relations between America and their country of assignment, and in overseeing the day to day work of the Embassy. Ambassador Nagy will also briefly discuss the major goals of U.S. foreign policy, and what embassies do – since these factors impact the work of the Ambassador.

Instructor: Ambassador Tibor Nagy is Vice Provost for International Affairs at Texas Tech University and lectures nationally on international affairs and U.S. diplomacy. Prior to TTU he served as a U.S. diplomat, spending over twenty years in eight African countries, including as Ambassador to Ethiopia and Guinea, and as deputy ambassador to Nigeria, Cameroon and Togo. He came to America as a political refugee from Hungary, and received his B.A. from Texas Tech University and M.S.A. from George Washington University.

FBI Turned “Inside Out”

Come learn about the FBI from past to present from the perspective of a Special Agent of 25 years serving in the FBI. We will discuss significant cases and the workings of the Federal System - the best and the worst of the FBI. After covering the challenges and changes of the FBI now and into the future, we will discuss the evolution of Federal Law Enforcement and whether it is staying true to the Constitution or becoming a “government police force”. Is the FBI still a true Independent Agency or has it become a “Political Enforcement Entity?”

Instructor: Chief Kyle Bonath, M.A., has recently retired from the FBI after serving for twenty-five years in a wide range of operational and leadership positions. Bonath earned his bachelor's and master degrees in accounting from Texas Tech University. He is currently serving as the Texas Tech University System Police Chief and has oversight for over 140 employees in Lubbock, El Paso and Amarillo, Texas.

Observations about Higher Education in the Future

Higher education has been a hot topic for the last couple of years. Specifically, issues such as the rising cost of tuition and new terminologies such as MOOCs. LMSs, online and adaptive learning, competency-based education, prior learning assessments and credentialing just to name a few. Advances in technology, the concept of what is a faculty member's role, and meeting the workforce demands are changing the expectations within higher education. This session will discuss the concepts that will likely have significant impacts on higher education in the future.

Instructor: Melanie Hart, Ph.D., holds the title of Vice Provost for Texas Tech University Worldwide eLearning. Her responsibilities include the oversight of the six regional teaching sites and the Center at Junction, online program compliance and quality, the Osher Lifelong Learning Institute (OLLI), continuing education, and Texas Tech University Independent School District (TTUISD). She received two degrees from Texas Tech University and her doctorate from Auburn University.

A Spiritual Model of Aging – Rising with Power

Imagine a model of aging that includes spiritual tasks for each era of life, drawn from an ancient Jewish text compiled in 300 BCE-200 CE. This model is additionally enriched by symbols drawn from the earliest Jewish mystical text, adding layers of teachings-resources-wisdom. Regardless of one's religious beliefs and practice, this model holds universal voice. Buoying one through the challenges of age, holding inspiration and renewal as we move into the gift of entering another springtime of our lives.

Readying for Spring – Food for the Soul

Today's women lead such active lives – giving so much of ourselves to our family and friends. Renewing and refilling ourselves becomes essential for us to continue to do so. In Jewish mystical text, each season of the year is linked to symbols, resources that can energize, inspire, and support us as we meet the invitations and challenges life holds. This session comes to aid us as we enter into spring with more presence and spirit.

An Invisible Epidemic? Substance Use and Abuse in Older Adults

Healthcare data suggest that adults 65 and older account for roughly one-third of US spending on prescription medications; and some health experts suspect that part of this spending is linked to prescription drug abuse. Other data suggest that drug and alcohol problems can develop as we age, even in individuals who had no problems when they were teens or younger adults. What kinds of factors may increase risks of substance abuse as we age, and what life-style choices may be protective?

Instructor: Alice Young has a Ph.D. in experimental psychology from the University of Minnesota, received postdoctoral training in pharmacology at the University of Michigan, and currently holds faculty and administrative positions at TTU and TTUHSC. Her research focused on psychopharmacology with over 20 years of NIH support for studies of drug tolerance and cognitive changes in Alzheimer's disease.

Courage with the American Presidents – Andrew Jackson and Abraham Lincoln

It takes extraordinary courage to be President of the United States. The person occupying the First Office is subject to criticism from all sides of the political spectrum. No matter what decision is made there is always opposition and it's been that way since the first President took the Oath of Office. Political parties, the public, and lobbyists are often fickle and the Presidents have to make hard choices that they think are in the best interest of the country. They have to show courage in the face opposition that in some cases may cost them the Presidency. This course is an on-going discussion of Presidential historian's Michael Beschloss's New York Times bestselling book Presidential Courage: Brave Leaders and How They Changed America 1789-1989. This second class section will focus on Andrew Jackson and Abraham Lincoln.

The History of Spanish Renaissance Architecture through Texas & Texas Tech University

Spanish architecture came to the New World from sixteenth century Spain in the form and design of Spanish missions. The building design seemed well suited to the tablelands of West Texas, so similar in color and character to those of Central Spain and so suited to the Spanish background of southwestern history.

So it was the architecture chosen for the first buildings on the Texas Tech campus in the early 1920's by the architects, Sanguinet, Staats, and Hedrick of Fort Worth and William Ward Watkin of Houston. The material selected was mat brick with roofs of red mission tile.

Texas Tech University has maintained the continuity of this architecture for the past 90 plus years, not only on the Lubbock campus but also on many of the other campuses. How this has been accomplished over these many years is a very intriguing story and shows the university's dedication to the overall master plan. There will also be an update on new construction and master planning of the Lubbock campus and others as well.

Instructor: Michael Molina, Vice Chancellor of Facilities Planning & Construction for Texas Tech University System. Throughout his professional career, he has collectively managed a capital improvement and development portfolio exceeding $2.2 billion. Mr. Molina assumed the position as the vice chancellor of facilities planning and construction (FP&C) for the Texas Tech University System on April 1, 2010.

Death in the City of Light

For over two centuries tourists have flocked to Paris in search of entertainment and enlightenment. This course examines the history of two of the city's most macabre destinations: Père Lachaise Cemetery and the Paris Catacombs. Although they initially appear to be polar opposites of one another, these two burial spaces share a common origin story that dates back to the tumultuous era of the French Revolution. This course will explore that early history and explain how and why the dead experienced a strange revolution of their own at the turn of the nineteenth century.

Instructor: Erin-Marie Legacey Ph.D., is an assistant professor in the Texas Tech University department of history, where she teaches courses on French and European history. She received her Ph.D. in 2011 from Northwestern University. She is currently completing her first book, Making Space for the Dead in Revolutionary Paris, 1789-1830.

A Different Texas History: Lessons We Overlooked the First Time

In four 1-hour sessions participants will study mostly familiar events and issues from an unfamiliar viewpoint, one that makes us reexamine a bit of our state's past and some of its conventional history.

- Independence Day & the Texas Revolution, 1836
- Quanah and Cynthia Ann Parker & her capture in 1860
- The Texas frontier in 1877: creating a West Texas region
- Drought in Texas: A view from deep time to global warming

Instructor: Paul Carlson, Ph.D., is a member of the Texas Institute of Letters and the Philosophical Society of Texas. As emeritus professor of history at Texas Tech University Dr. Carlson is the author or editor of over 20 books, and a recipient of several university teaching awards.

World of Tomorrow: 1939-40 New York World's Fair, Hope and Terror

This two part class will view and evaluate the "Future" as envisioned at the New York World's Fair of 1939-40 in two films. During the first session we will view The World of Tomorrow, a documentary observing the 50th anniversary of the Fair. We'll examine the idea behind the Fair, the planning and construction, and the two years of operation. The Fair was a vision of hope as the country was emerging from the Depression, only to see that hope dashed as war clouds gathered and much of the world was at war by the Fair's closing in the autumn of 1940. Well before 9/11 a terrorist attack occurred at the Fair - this little known event will be reviewed.

The second session will include a short film The City. This movie was shown at the Fair as a vision of the city of the future through urban planning. The soundtrack is by Aaron Copeland. A segment of this film is shown in The World of Tomorrow. We will discuss the semi utopian plan for new cities proposed and built during the Roosevelt years and where they stand today.

Canyon Lakes Project – The Rest of the Story

The Yellowhouse Canyon has always been the most beautiful natural area of Lubbock. Unfortunately, during the growth of Lubbock, it became the place to hide the ugliest parts of our urbanization process. By 1968, except for MacKenzie State Park, there were three major wrecking yards, an asphalt batch plant, a concrete batch plant, numerous caliche pits, the City's garbage dump, and many instances of private dumping in the canyon. In 1968, the City Planning Department devised a plan to reclaim the canyon, build a series of recreational dams and use reclaimed water as a water source. The concept became a part of the "Goals for the 70's" and after approval of a 2.8 million dollar bond issue after the 1970 Lubbock Tornado, numerous State and Federal grants made the concept a reality. To date, the Lubbock Canyon Lakes Project is still the largest water reuse recreational project in the United States. This class will unveil the behind-the-scene efforts to make it a reality.

Instructor: Jim Bertram, FAICP became the Senior City Planner for the City of Lubbock within two years of graduation from Texas Tech University in 1966, with a B.S. in Parks Administration. In the 1970s, he completed graduate studies at Texas Tech in Urban Design, Land Use Law and City Planning. He served two years as Director of Planning for Wichita Falls, Texas from 1968-1970 and returned to Lubbock as Director of Planning following the 1970 Lubbock tornado.

Hobbies

Drawing with a Brush – The Use of Water Soluble Graphite

This class will introduce you to the world of graphite without the tedious use of pencils and stumps. With its ease of use, you can create expressive paintings with a wide range of grays and some soft tinted colors for change in value. You can create subtle blends and hard edges easily with the brush; this technique also works well with watercolors. It takes less time than traditional drawing and it's great for travel and plein air work.

Instructor: “Eclectic”... that is the word that best describes the Artist/ Muralist June Musick. Her idea of art is paint everything! She paints fast and passionately and humor fuels her energy for the arts. Every stroke of the brush comes with a smile (or a joke) whether it is a 2 inch Purdy brush or the finest sable! She has been Instructor to many and loves the look on their faces when they “GET IT.”

Privacy Lost: Big Data, Security, and the Law

Technology is transforming our lives, and it is creating mountains of data. That mountain is doubling in size every two years, and by 2020 the data we create and copy annually will reach 44 zettabytes, or 44 trillion gigabytes. Some argue that this abundant data resource has become the “new oil”. Businesses are eager to drill to unlock the mysteries of disease, unblock our traffic jams, and solve industry's most pressing question: what do consumers really want?

In this class we will talk about privacy and the law in a society that wants to know everything about everyone.

Robert Taylor – CEO of United Supermarkets

In July 2007 Robert sold his business to one of his largest customers, United Supermarkets, which also has the store brands of Amigos and Market Street. He joined United's leadership team as vice president of logistics. This entailed orchestrating and getting product to 50 stores, including multiple stores in Lubbock, Amarillo, Wichita Falls, Abilene, six stores in the Dallas/Fort Worth area, and stores in twenty rural communities in West Texas. During this time, Robert recognized a need and convinced United to get into manufacturing. The first manufacturing endeavor was building and operating an ice plant. Krystal ice is distributed in West Texas and the Dallas/Fort Worth area. When that project was successfully completed, Robert led the effort to purchase Praters Prepared Foods. With the completion of renovations, Praters will ship prepared food to grocery stores in many states across the country. Because of United's growth and diversification, Robert planned and executed the building of a second distribution center in Alliance, Texas. In February 2010 Robert was offered, and proudly accepted, the position of Chief Executive Officer of United Supermarkets. In September 2013 United announced a change of ownership to Albertson's LLC. United will operate as a separate business unit under Albertson's. Robert continues to lead the company as president of the United subsidiary.

Science

How Do Scientists Come Up with those Crazy Ideas? The Scientific Method And How It Works

Famously, Thomas Edison tried thousands of times to develop his light bulb before coming up with the filament that worked: "I speak without exaggeration when I say that I have constructed three thousand different theories in connection with the electric light, each one of them reasonable and apparently to be true. Yet only in two cases did my experiments prove the truth of my theory." T. A. Edison

Modern scientists take the same approach, testing theories using the Scientific Method. In this class we will talk about the Scientific Method, about different kinds of experiments that can be developed using that Method, and try our hands at using the Scientific Method to understand a real human disease.

Instructor: Clinton C. MacDonald, Ph. D., did his undergraduate work at Middlebury College in Vermont, where he developed a keen interest in molecular biology research. After his Ph. D. at Stony Brook University, he did post-doctoral work at Princeton University, where he was supported by fellowships from the American Cancer Society and the Howard Hughes

Medical Institute. In 1995, Dr. MacDonald was hired by the Department of Cell Biology & Biochemistry at the Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center, where he is now a Professor and Associate Chair.

Date: March 22, 2017

Day: Wednesday, 2:00-3:30p.m.

Fee: FREE to OLLI Members & Carillon Residents

Location: Carillon's Windsong Building, Caprock Room, 4002 16th Street

Shining Light on Solar Energy

The course will provide an overview of the many factors which affect the implementation of solar energy as an alternative power source. We will discuss the process of collecting solar light and turning it into useable electricity, including the manufacturing processes that are used to produce solar panels. We will then look at how market forces and governmental policies promote and limit deployment on a broad scale. An expected learning outcome is that students will have the knowledge required to make informed decisions about personal and public use of solar generated power.

Instructor: Tim Dallas, Ph.D., is a professor of Electrical and Computer Engineering and Associate Dean of the Graduate School at Texas Tech University. His research interests include Microelectromechanical Systems (MEMS) for application in education, medicine, and sports. The classes he offers include: Solar Energy, Technology Startup-Lab, and Introduction to MEMS.

Date: April 3, 2017

Day: Monday, 5:30-7:00p.m.

Fee: $15

Location: Garden and Arts Center, 44th St. & University Ave.

Inadvertent Weather Modification: Do Humans Play a Significant Role in Our Weather?

This class will present a theoretical basis for why human activities such as irrigation, wind farms, and urban heat islands could be expected to play a significant role in the evolution of our weather. The existence of chaos in the atmospheric system will be discussed, which ultimately provides the mechanism for small changes to the atmosphere to modify the weather days later and thousands of miles away. Early experimental results will be shared that describe the nature of inadvertent weather modification from wind farms and irrigation in the Midwest U.S.

Instructor: Brian Ancell, Ph.D., joined the Texas Tech University Geosciences faculty in 2009 where he researches atmospheric predictability. Dr. Ancell received his Ph.D. in Atmospheric Sciences from the University of Washington in 2006, and then was a postdoctoral scholar at the same institution for three years. Dr. Ancell received his B.S. in Civil Engineering from the University of Illinois.

Date: April 4, 2017

Day: Tuesday, 5:30-7:00p.m.

Fee: $15

Location: Garden and Arts Center,
44th St. & University Ave.

Technology

Basic iPad Skills and Learning to Email

In this three part class we will cover the basic components of the iPad like terminology, home screen, volume control, apps, the dock, settings, and other essential basics for the beginner. Then we will move into email. Components will include: how to send an email, reply, use blind copies for privacy, forward, and include the most important aspect in forwarding - deleting addresses of those who send emails to you. Also included will be information about the different mail boxes (Draft, Sent, Junk), how to delete emails from these boxes, and how to empty the Trash.

In order to participate in this class you will need to have your iPad already set up (if it is new) and also have an email address. Important note - this class will be for the iPad only, and not any other tablet like Android, Kindle, or Nook. The operating systems are different on each one.

Instructor: Betty Jennings B.S., M.Ed., has a B.S. degree from McMurry University in All Level Education with an academic major in mathematics and an M.Ed. degree from Eastern New Mexico University with teaching emphases in both English and Reading. She has a total of 42 years in education, 12 of which were as a consultant.

Dates: January 26, February 23 and March 9, 2017

Days: Thursdays, 2:00-3:30p.m.

Fee: $35

Location: Pointe Plaza Cimarron Room
Enrollment is limited to 12 participants.

To register for this class, please include an email address that can be shared with the other members in the class.
