Welcome to the Osher Lifelong Learning Institute at Texas Tech University!

At Texas Tech University, we aspire to provide students an experience that is transformative, one that promotes intellectual curiosity, and promotes life-long learning.

The Osher Lifelong Learning Institute at Texas Tech University embodies these attributes. It offers unique opportunities for local citizens of more than 50 years of age who have a common interest in continuing their learning experiences and intellectual stimulation in an organization of like-minded people who value the joy of learning.

Many individuals have taken advantage of the offerings afforded through this exciting program. Courses are developed by peers with the goal of providing a high quality learning experience accessible to all. In addition, OLLI membership provides an opportunity for social interaction and new friendships with members who bring a lifetime of personal and professional experience to class.

I welcome and encourage your participation in this program that will provide opportunities to grow intellectually and socially.

Sincerely,

Lawrence Schovanec, Ph.D.
President.

The Osher Foundation

The Bernard Osher Foundation, headquartered in San Francisco, was founded in 1977 by Bernard Osher, a respected businessman and community leader. The Foundation seeks to improve quality of life through support for higher education and the arts. Mr. Osher is a community-oriented businessman whose philanthropy created Osher Lifelong Learning Institutes (OLLI) across the country. Our OLLI is in a network of 121 lifelong learning programs on university and college campuses across the country, with at least one grantee in each of the 50 states and the District of Columbia.

OLLI owes its existence to Bernard and Barbro Osher, whose vision and continuing moral and financial support of lifelong learning is unprecedented and unparalleled. We are very fortunate and proud to have an OLLI at Texas Tech University.

Our Mission

The mission of Osher Lifelong Learning Institute (OLLI) at Texas Tech University is to provide enjoyable and stimulating non-credit learning and cultural opportunities for its members.

What is Osher Lifelong Learning Institute (OLLI)?

OLLI began as a continuing education program at Texas Tech University in 2002-2003 as Texas Tech Lifelong Learning. In 2008, endowment support was received from the Bernard Osher Foundation. In recognition of its affiliation with the Osher Foundation and as one of 120 such institutes nationwide, Texas Tech Lifelong Learning was re-named Osher Lifelong Learning Institute (OLLI) at Texas Tech University. We are self-sustaining, supported through membership dues, class fees, an endowment from the Bernard Osher Foundation, donations and in-kind support from Texas Tech University. No tests, no grades, no research papers – just intellectual stimulation.

What are the requirements to join?

Everyone age 50 and older may join.
The only prerequisite is a desire to learn.

What does membership cost?

Membership is $35 per person, valid for a year from date of purchase, and does not include cost of individual courses.

Who teaches OLLI classes?

Most of our classes are taught by distinguished professors, both active and retired. Other instructors are experts in their fields, university doctoral students or OLLI members. There is one common denominator: they teach because they enjoy education and OLLI students.

How do I sign up?

Below are the methods to register for memberships, classes and other events:

- Register securely online at www.oli.ttu.edu. We accept VISA, MasterCard, and Discover.
- Mail a completed registration form with a check. The form can be found in this catalog or printed from www.oli.ttu.edu. See form for details.
- Bring completed form with check to the Lubbock OLLI office during office hours.

What if I have to cancel my registration?

Because space in classes is limited, please let the office know as soon as possible if you need to cancel a class registration. It is important that you are aware that canceling any class requiring bus transportation, food or supplies will result in loss of the registration fee unless the member is able to find a replacement to attend in their place.

For all other classes, we ask that members let us know of their cancellation at least 4 days in advance to be eligible to receive a credit transfer to be applied to another class or a refund. Members may also choose to donate their refund if they wish to support OLLI operations. We do provide full refunds on a case-by-case basis for illness, medical emergencies etc. Membership fees cannot be credited or refunded.

What happens for weather or other emergency cancellations?

OLLI follows the same policy as Texas Tech University for cancellations because of weather or other acts of nature or emergencies. If TTU classes are canceled, OLLI classes are also canceled. Postings can be found at www.emergency.ttu.edu as well as on local television or radio stations. OLLI reserves the right to substitute instructors, rearrange class schedules, or cancel classes because of low enrollment or illness. In case of class cancellation or a schedule change, you will be notified and may receive a credit for another class in the same semester or a refund.

Where is the OLLI office?

Our office is in the Texas Tech Plaza, 5th floor, Suite 513 at 19th & University Avenue, Lubbock, Texas. Our email is oli@ttu.edu, and our phone number is (806) 742-OLLI (6554).

Arts & Culture

What is a Recycled Roomscape, Anyway?

Join well-known Lubbock artist and graphic designer, Pat Maines, as she shares her passion for collecting and creating miniatures. To most people, miniatures are dollhouses and serve as a foundation for collecting, but to Pat they are an art form – giving items like broken jewelry, buttons and small containers a second chance.

Instructor: Pat Maines creates interior environments that are small spaces, inner sanctuaries, which beckon you to take another look. The assemblages are miniature, three-dimensional sculptures of places created by a skilled recycler who reinvents found items into new accoutrements of home.

Date: February 7, 2018

Day: Wednesday, 2-3:30 p.m.

Fee: $15

Location: Texas Tech Plaza,
1901 University Avenue, Lubbock, TX 79410

The Reign in Spain, 1492 – Sephardic Memories and Music

The area that is now modern Spain was home to “Las Tres Culturas,” Christians, Muslims, and Jews, who coexisted in relative peace for many centuries. Due to extreme persecution promoted by the Inquisition, the Sephardic (Spanish) Jewish culture was forced underground but was never completely forgotten. This short course will bring to light a bit of this history and the rich collection of music that has survived.

Instructor: Eric Fried, associate professor of music and assistant to the director of the School of Music at Texas Tech University, earned music degrees from Indiana University, the University of Denver, and the University of Arizona. He has led the Music of Spain program at the TTU Center in Seville, Spain since 2007.

Another Side of Acrylics

Acrylics are easy and incredibly versatile. They can be used as liquid (like watercolor) or more solid (like oils) depending on your desire. This class will show you the fundamental roots of acrylics, how to make your paintings come alive with vibrant color and realism, or create movement and balance in an abstract or still life.

The class will be hands-on common approaches to painting fine art with acrylic. You will receive instruction on the technical use of the tools and some of the mediums that can further the use of your acrylics.

- Day 1 Introduction of Acrylic Applications and Design
- Day 2 Paint the Light
- Day 3 Contrast, Focus, and Defining Patterns
- Day 4 When a Shadow is a Shadow

Instructor: “Eclectic” – that is the word that best describes the muralist June Musick. Her idea of art is, “Paint everything!” She paints fast and passionately and humor fuels her energy for the arts. Every stroke of the brush comes with a smile (or a joke) whether it is a two-inch chip brush or the finest sable!

Dates: March 5, 6, 7, and 8, 2018

Exploring the Early Christian Mosaics of Ravenna, Italy

This class is an exploration of the 5th and 6th century Greco-Roman Christian mosaics of Ravenna, Italy. These mosaics contain elements of Byzantine and Roman iconography that reflects the city’s key location toward the northern end of the Adriatic Sea, where Byzantine and Roman traditions came together. The city’s ancient churches have been designated a United Nations Educational and Cultural Organization World Heritage Site.

Instructor: Gary Elbow, Ph.D., has taught classes on geography and Latin America at Texas Tech University for over 45 years. He is the recipient of Fulbright Awards for teaching and research in Costa Rica and Ecuador and has received local and national recognition for his contributions in teaching, research, and service.

Jazz and Swing Legends – A Retrospective

Enjoy a live jazz quartet! Join us to discover the evolution of jazz styles from the swing era to present. Although jazz may be perceived as a unified genre of music, there are actually many substyles within jazz that include swing, bebop, cool, modal, hard bop, soul jazz, jazz-rock fusion, contemporary, and so forth. We will explore the evolution of jazz styles, including the main jazz innovators and social trends that fostered each style.

Instructor: Dr. Benjamin Haugland is the assistant professor of Jazz Studies at Texas Tech University. He has a history of musical distinction and is a recipient of nine DownBeat awards for jazz including “Best Soloist” and “Best Jazz Composition.”

Leonard Bernstein Teaches You Music

The world is in the process of celebrating the centennial of Leonard Bernstein (1918-1990). His genius lives on in the 21st century. Bernstein was a composer, a musician, a conductor, a social activist and an educator. We will learn about music directly from him. During the 1950's “Lennie” was a seven-time guest on the award-winning television program “Omnibus” hosted by Alistair Cook. This semester, class participants will view and discuss two episodes of the program featuring Bernstein the educator.

Instructor: Bill Pesetski is a retired Department of Defense systems analyst. He attended Drake University and the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, earning a B.A. in Economics.

Tweet for Tat: Is It Social Media or Antisocial Media?

Posting, messaging, tweeting, trolling and bullying are all terms that are associated with the use of what we have come to call social media. But is that an accurate name – has social media evolved to become antisocial media or has it always been a bit of both? We will discuss views on the communication role, societal impact and ever evolving use of social media. Our focus will not be on a “how to” but on a “what is” approach that reviews social media's effect on our communication.

Instructor: Michael Zahn is an assistant professor of practice at Texas Tech University in the Department of Advertising within the College of Media and Communication. He has experience in both higher education teaching and professional practice.

Dick and Jane Master the Twitterverse

This session will explore the lure of using newer technologies (social media) to do old things – like stay in touch with family and other loved ones – even better than older ways. It will also examine where the landmines are, where the rattlesnakes hide, and where the snipers are likely to be lurking. By dealing with both the promises and the dangers, we can more intelligently determine how to incorporate these newer technologies into our lives.

Instructor: Randy Reddick, Ph.D., is the Morris Professor of Journalism at Texas Tech University and assistant dean for technology in the College of Media and Communication. He served as managing editor of The Daily Press (Paso Robles, Calif.) and as company vice president 1973-1988.

The American West Through Silent Film

The myths and legends of the American West don't always stem from historical fact, but rather through our impressions from the movies. For nearly 60 years, the western film genre was one of the most popular forms of mass entertainment. Actors like John Wayne and directors like John Ford became synonymous with the genre. In this course, we'll watch selected films or clips from films and discuss how early cinema helped to form our understanding of both the historical and fictional American West.

Facilitator: Rob Weiner, M.A., M.S., is humanities librarian for the College of Visual and Performing Arts and of Film Studies for Texas Tech University. Health & Wellness

Could Lubbockites Be Too Friendly?

Lubbock prides itself on being “the friendliest city in America.” But are we, perhaps, too friendly? How do our rates of communicable disease compare with other areas of the state? Why do our rates differ from those of other regions? In this session, we'll discuss how Lubbock – from the biological and social factors to the built environment – stacks up and what we can do to improve the well-being of our community.

Instructor: Madeline McClure serves as the health education facilitator for the City of Lubbock Health Department. She graduated from Baylor University with a Bachelor of Arts in Literature and Social Science and from Boston University with a Master of Public Health.

Hearing Loss in America, a Silent Epidemic?

The statistics are alarming! 36 million Americans have hearing loss – this includes 17% of our adult population. Unfortunately, only 20% of those individuals who might benefit from treatment actually seek help; most tend to delay treatment until they cannot communicate even in the best of listening situations. This course's objective is to give an overview of the history, present, and future of hearing loss and hearing devices.

Instructor: Arica Black, Au.D., CCC-A, FAAA, Doctor of Audiology/COO received her Bachelor of Science degree in Communication Disorders as well as her Doctor of Audiology from Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center (TTUHSC). She is a member of the American Academy of Audiology (AAA) and the American Speech-Language Hearing Association (ASHA).

An Inside Look at the Lubbock Medical Examiner's Office

Join the Lubbock County chief medical examiner as he gives an inside look into his role as lead pathologist for the county. Dr. Natarajan and his team are called upon in any and all unnatural or unexpected deaths, or situations where a medical doctor is unable to certify a cause of death. The medical examiner's office is required to be involved in cases of homicide, suicide, accidents, and deaths that are undetermined. In such instances, it is the role of Dr. Natarajan and his staff to determine the cause and manner of death and give testimony in court.

Instructor: Sridhar Natarajan, M.D., M.S., is board certified by the American Board of Pathology in Anatomic, Clinical and Forensic Pathology. He has been a chief medical examiner for nearly 15 years with involvement in more than 10,000 forensic autopsies that included determining natural and non-natural causes of death and manners of death.

Courage With the American Presidents: Truman, Kennedy, and Reagan

It takes extraordinary courage to be president of the United States. The person occupying the Oval Office is subject to criticism from all sides of the political spectrum. Political parties, the public, and lobbyists are often fickle and the presidents have to make hard choices that they think are in the best interest of the country. They have to show courage in the face of opposition that in some cases may cost them the presidency.

This course is an on-going discussion of presidential historian's Michael Beschloss's New York Times bestselling book, "Presidential Courage: Brave Leaders and How They Changed America 1789-1989". These classes will focus on Harry Truman, John F. Kennedy, and Ronald Reagan. Required text: "Presidential Courage" by Michael Beschloss ISBN-10: 0743257448 ISBN-13: 978-0743257442

Facilitator: Rob Weiner, M.A., M.S., is humanities librarian for the College of Visual and Performing Arts and of Film Studies for Texas Tech University. He has written, edited, and co-edited numerous books related to popular culture, film, music, and sequential art.

Watching the Wacky Weather of West Texas

In this class, we'll look at some of the factors that make weather in West Texas so varied and unusual. We'll explore how severe weather is defined, the ingredients necessary for severe weather to occur, and the role storm-spotters play in the weather-warning process. Real-world examples of severe weather events will also be shown, allowing participants to practice their "chasing skills". We'll keep the discussion non-technical yet informative and fun!

Instructor: Derrick "D.G." Ginter has been an NWS Skywarn volunteer with the Lubbock Storm Spotting Team since 1990, and he has been a member of Ron Roberts' "Storm Team" on KAMC-TV since 1998. Meteorology and Wind Engineering were among his areas of study in earning a Master's Degree from Texas Tech University and severe weather has been a passion/interest/hobby since his youth.

Sixteen Minutes from Home

On January 16, 2003, just 83 seconds after liftoff, a piece of foam the size of a briefcase broke off and struck the space shuttle Columbia's wing. NASA officials did not consider the incident to be critical to the mission, and notified Commander Rick Husband of this via email. His response: "Roger. Copy." For 16 days, the crew of the space shuttle conducted dozens of international scientific investigations and sixteen minutes before the scheduled landing, Columbia broke apart. All aboard perished. At the age of 41, Navy Cmdr. "Willie" McCool was the youngest astronaut on board, and this was his first and only flight into space.

Join us as Dr. Barent "Barry" McCool shares his personal story of a father's pride. "The seven astronauts were all unique individuals. They were all heroes," McCool says. "Willie was my little boy."

Instructor: Barent (Barry) McCool, Ph.D., LCDR, USN. Ret. Associate professor and doctoral adviser, Hospitality and Retail Management Texas Tech University, served as a combat marine in the Vietnam War and his son, William "Willie" C. McCool, was the pilot of NASA's Space Shuttle Columbia.

Drones

Drones are a hot topic in contemporary culture and regulation. From advanced military applications to delivering defibrillators to patients faster than an ambulance can get to those in need, drones are fast becoming a common part of everyday life. Like the automobile, the airplane, the personal computer and the internet, drones will soon be so ubiquitous it will be difficult to remember a life without them. In this discussion, we will explore the future applications of drones in our personal lives, as well as in places you would least expect. Several examples will be on hand from fixed wing to quadcopter, and demonstrations of each platform's abilities will be displayed.

Instructor: Joseph B. Dannemiller is an instructor and coordinator for the Whitacre College of Engineering and holds B.S. degrees in civil engineering and architecture. He is currently an NSF fellow finishing a Ph.D. in wind science & engineering focusing on hurricane wind damage estimation modeling.

Bioethics – A Philosophical Discussion

This class will focus on bioethics issues with certain gene editing technologies. We will discuss eugenics, disabilities and disableism, and the potential for a GATTACA world. GATTACA is a 1997 movie by Andrew Niccol telling the story of a society divided between those who have been perfected through genetic editing technology and those who have not. As gene editing technologies have progressed so much in the last 20 years, it is certainly time to take a look at where we are going.

Instructor: Francesca di Poppa, Ph.D., is an associate professor in the Texas Tech University Department of Philosophy. Her studies focus on the history of modern philosophy, in particular the causation debate and the development of modern notions of man and the world.
