Welcome to the Osher Lifelong Learning Institute at Texas Tech University!

At Texas Tech University, we aspire to provide students an experience that is transformative, one that promotes intellectual curiosity, and promotes life-long learning.

The Osher Lifelong Learning Institute at Texas Tech University embodies these attributes. It offers unique opportunities for local citizens of more than 50 years of age who have a common interest in continuing their learning experiences and intellectual stimulation in an organization of like-minded people who value the joy of learning.

Many individuals have taken advantage of the offerings afforded through this exciting program. Courses are developed by peers with the goal of providing a high-quality learning experience accessible to all. In addition, OLLI membership provides an opportunity for social interaction and new friendships with members who bring a lifetime of personal and professional experience to class.

I welcome and encourage your participation in this program that will provide opportunities to grow intellectually and socially.

Sincerely,

Lawrence Schovanec, Ph.D.
President.

The Osher Foundation

The Bernard Osher Foundation, headquartered in San Francisco, was founded in 1977 by Bernard Osher, a respected businessman and community leader. The Foundation seeks to improve quality of life through support for higher education and the arts. Mr. Osher is a community-oriented businessman whose philanthropy created Osher Lifelong Learning Institutes (OLLI) across the country. Our OLLI is in a network of 124 lifelong learning programs on university and college campuses across the country, with at least one grantee in each of the 50 states and the District of Columbia.

OLLI owes its existence to Bernard and Barbro Osher, whose vision and continuing moral and financial support of lifelong learning is unprecedented and unparalleled. We are very fortunate and proud to have an OLLI at Texas Tech University.

Our Mission

The mission of Osher Lifelong Learning Institute (OLLI) at Texas Tech University is to provide enjoyable and stimulating non-credit learning and cultural opportunities for its members.

What is Osher Lifelong Learning Institute?

OLLI began as a continuing education program at Texas Tech University in 2002-2003 as Texas Tech Lifelong Learning. In 2008, endowment support was received from the Bernard Osher Foundation. In recognition of its affiliation with the Osher Foundation and as one of 124 such institutes nationwide, Texas Tech Lifelong Learning was re-named Osher Lifelong Learning Institute (OLLI) at Texas Tech University. We are self-sustaining, supported through membership dues, class fees, an endowment from the Bernard Osher Foundation, donations and in-kind support from Texas Tech University. No tests, no grades, no research papers – just intellectual stimulation.

What are the requirements to join?

Everyone age 50 and older may join.
The only prerequisite is a desire to learn.

What does membership cost?

Membership is $30 per person, valid for a year from date of purchase, and does not include cost of individual courses.

Where is the OLLI office?

Our offices are located in the TTU Higher Education Teaching Sites at 2818 East U.S. Hwy 290, Fredericksburg, Texas, and 806 Steve Hawkins Pkwy, Marble Falls, Texas. Our phone numbers are (830) 990-4948 for Fredericksburg and (830) 693-0478 for Highland Lakes. Our phone stays busy each semester, so if you reach voicemail, it is likely the staff is on another phone call or has a visitor in the office. Please leave a message, and your call will be returned as quickly as possible by an employee or a volunteer.

Who teaches OLLI classes?

Most of our classes are taught by distinguished professors, both active and retired. Other instructors are experts in their fields, university doctoral students or OLLI members. There is one common denominator: they teach because they enjoy education and OLLI students.

What happens for weather or other emergency cancellations?

OLLI follows the same policy as Texas Tech University for cancellations because of weather or other acts of nature or emergencies. If TTU classes are canceled, OLLI classes are also canceled. Postings can be found at www.emergency.ttu.edu as well as on local television or radio stations. OLLI reserves the right to substitute instructors, rearrange class schedules, or cancel classes because of low enrollment or illness. In case of class cancellation or a schedule change, you will be notified and may receive a credit for another class in the same semester or a refund.

What if I have to cancel my registration?

Because space in classes is limited, please let the office know as soon as possible if you need to cancel a class registration. It is important that you are aware that canceling any class requiring bus transportation, food or supplies will result in loss of the registration fee unless the member is able to find a replacement to attend in their place.

For all other classes, we ask that members let us know of their cancellation at least four days in advance to be eligible to receive a credit transfer to be applied to another class or a refund. Members may also choose to donate their refund if they wish to support OLLI operations. We do provide full refunds on a case-by-case basis for illness, medical emergencies, etc. Membership fees cannot be credited or refunded.

Mystery, Miracle and Majesty – The New York City Cloisters

Perched on the highest pinnacle of the island of Manhattan is a small, sacred treasure house of the finest medieval European art, architecture and tapestry in the world. This course provides a pilgrim's way to experience the people and their treasures, hear their sounds and stories and embrace the gardens of Romanesque and Gothic medieval Europe. The heartbeat of medieval times will be palpable and unforgettable.

Instructors: Allan and Bobbye Sawatzky live in Fredericksburg and maintain a second home in New York City to continue their learning experiences in the arts. The Cloisters, a monastic arm of the New York Metropolitan Museum of Art, is within eyesight of their home and is a source of inspiration, scholarship and passion for the Sawatzkys.

LBJ and Three Kleins

What was it like living in the shadow of the LBJ Ranch and working for President Johnson? Lawrence Klein was the "fix-it" man at the ranch. If something wasn't working, the Johnson family would call Mr. Klein to repair it – the tool shed at the ranch is now named in honor of him. Hear Lawrence's sons tell first-person stories of what it was like to know and work for President Johnson in the 1960s when Stonewall was the "Summer White House."

Instructors: The sons of Lawrence Klein – Tony, John and Stan all grew up in Stonewall and worked at the Ranch or the TV station in Austin while in college. All now live and work in Fredericksburg.

Birds on the Fredericksburg Wastewater Treatment Plant Pond

Wastewater treatment ponds are often populated by wintering waterfowl and shorebirds. Modern technology and safety concerns have reduced the need for, and access to, these ponds. The Fredericksburg wastewater pond is adjacent to the Ft. Martin Scott Historic Site and is occasionally home to 15 duck and geese species, as well as coots, grebes, sandpipers, plovers, herons, cormorants and egrets. Learn about avian visitors to the area through this interactive presentation.

Instructor: Bill Lindemann is a native Texan who has been an active birder for more than 50 years. He wrote a weekly newspaper column on birding for 19 years, twice served as president of the Native Plant Society of Texas, and founded the Fredericksburg Nature Center.

Global Water Stewardship: A Sustainable Perspective

Water is everywhere and appears abundant. From a drinking water perspective, the quantity of water available is continuing to decline as the population increases. What does this mean for the future? This discussion will reveal some interesting numbers from a global to a local perspective and introduce some alternatives to sustaining our water resources for future generations.

Instructor: Clifford Fedler, Ph.D., has researched the use of wetlands for waste treatment, the fate of pharmaceuticals and primary care products in the environment, single-cell protein and algae production for feed and fuels, and production of high-value products from recycled water. Fedler is an American Society of Agricultural and Biological Engineers (ASABE) fellow.

Apollo at 50: A Look Back and a Look Forward

This presentation will explore the U.S. space program's past, present and future. It will answer questions, such as what did NASA do to get humans safely to the moon and back 50 years ago? How did they do it so fast and what was learned? Other topics include space travel that has happened since Apollo and what is planned for the future. Questions are welcomed throughout the presentation.

Instructor: Gerald Griffin is the former director of the NASA Lyndon B. Johnson Space Center (JSC). He was a flight director prior to that and conducted half of the lunar landings made during Apollo 14, 16 and 17. His team in mission control played key roles in the safe return of the astronauts of Apollo 13 after that flight experienced an oxygen tank explosion.

When Rain Becomes Stormwater Runoff – The Major Threat to River Health

In many communities throughout the nation, stormwater runoff pollution carried to rivers via street and storm drain networks, is the number one threat to river health. Ensuring river sustainability involves reducing runoff pollution by managing rain on-site, closer to where it falls. This presentation will discuss ways that residential, commercial and other property owners can do just that.

Instructor: Karen Bishop has 18 years of experience with the San Antonio River Authority. She is the senior supervisor in the Environmental Sciences Department – Stormwater Unit and has managed education, social marketing, planning, policy and sustainability projects, all with the common thread of improving San Antonio River Basin health.

Russian Icons – Not the Desktop Variety

There is natural curiosity to depictions of the image of Christ. Since the second century, Russian and other iconographers have painted images on boards, murals and mosaics. These likenesses are striking across the ages and enable onlookers to readily identify images of religious figures. As the hunger for faith and religious art is strong today, this course will explore iconography, the process of “writing” icons and the current status of religious art.

Instructor: Carol Perry earned a bachelor's in art from Texas Christian University and master's from Texas Woman's University and is currently a senior lecturer at Baylor University and painter.

Date: Tuesday, March 17

Which Story Line Tells Your Life Story?

Why do people find certain movies, novels, celebrities and conspiracy theories so appealing? Could it be that they help tell a person's stories, even to one's self? Psychiatrist Carl Jung connected needs within the human psyche to personally resonating stories. These stories employ characters whose motives are intuitive due to recognition within a person of familiar needs. The four needs are risk-taking, mastering something new, individual development and social acceptance. This class explores the 12 archetypes and the human needs they reflect, showing how certain themes resonate with people.

Instructor: Marye Tharp, is a retired associate professor of business/marketing who taught at the University of Texas, Emerson College and Shriner University.

Date: Tuesday, April 7

The Battle for San Antonio in 1835 During the Texas Revolution

The Texan capture of San Antonio in 1835 is the least remembered battle of the Texas Revolution; yet, it was one of the two major Texan victories in the war for independence. This presentation will discuss both the Mexican and Texan armies. It will explore the crises the Texans had to overcome to win the battle and discuss the impact of the battle on events that followed; including, the battle for the Alamo and the Texas Declaration of Independence.

Instructor: Alwyn Barr, Ph.D., is professor emeritus of history at Texas Tech University and former chair of the history department. One of his five authored books is "Texans in Revolt: The Battle for San Antonio, 1835." He is a former president of the Texas State Historical Association.

International Trade and Trade Agreements: The Alternative to War

Although most economists have long agreed that trade increases economic prosperity, after World War II it became an essential instrument of those who tried to craft a new world order and prevent widespread military conflicts. In this session, we will review the costs and benefits of trade and discuss some of the more important trade agreements for the U.S. and in the world. Included will be an overview of the costs and benefits to our national economy, an understanding of some of the disagreements concerning trade, and a better idea of how trade affects daily life.

Instructor: Linda Gerber is the director of McCombs Center for Global Business, and senior lecturer with the Department of Marketing, McCombs School of Business at The University of Texas at Austin.

All About Taste

There was nothing in the early summer of 1969 to predict that a roadside market might grow into one of the leading specialty food companies in America. Mark Wieser had a dream of growing peaches and marketing them. He selected an 1870 log house to create a unique roadside stand. Today Fisher & Weiser ranks among the top two such specialty companies in the U.S. and enjoys a reputation for creating flavor profiles like no other.

Instructor: Mark B. Wieser has taught in public school, served as a county judge and currently spends time writing. He has published the biography of his father, who was instrumental in growing peaches in Gillespie County.

The Travels of Rudyard Kipling

An Englishman born in India, Rudyard Kipling traveled widely, and as a young man, became a rich and famous author. His prose, poetry, short stories and drinking ditties – such as: "The Jungle Books," "Just So Stories" for kids, "Kim" and "From Sea to Sea" – are some of the most beloved in English literature. His poem, "If," is among the most-quoted today in valedictories and speeches. The course will provide a brief overview of his writing, his life, his times, his exotic adventures and his lasting impact.

Instructor: Ross Bigelow, Ph.D., recently visited Kipling's home in England and came away with an abiding love of this gifted writer, his wide-ranging travels, his diverse interests and perspectives and the lasting impact he has made.

Two-Step Your Way Through a Tour of Historic Texas Dance Halls

Walk into any one of the remaining dance halls across the state, and the story of Texas is embedded in the floors, the walls and the people found there. Each one has its own unique story to tell. The Texas landscape had over 1,000 dance halls; today fewer than 400 remain, and some of those are at risk. This course will share some of the programs that are currently engaged across the state to support the mission to preserve historic halls for generations to come.

Instructor: Deb Fleming is the executive director of Texas Dance Hall Preservation. Over the past 14 years, she has logged thousands of miles searching out and photographing Texas dance halls and meeting their owners and caretakers and the communities they serve.

Popular Music of World War II

The 1940s were a rich time of popular music filled with dance music, swing bands and talented vocalists. But when the United States entered World War II, stirring and confidence-building songs like “We Did It Before and We’ll Do It Again” appealed to the patriotism of citizens finding themselves, once again, in a world war. Heartfelt songs like “When the Lights Go on Again (All Over the World)” and “I’ll Be Home for Christmas” spoke to the separation and uncertain reality of the times. Come learn the stories behind the popular music from World War II.

Instructor: Larry Hess, M.M., is a retired Lubbock ISD educator and an OLLI member. He is a professional musician, having retired after 30 years as a percussionist with the Lubbock Symphony Orchestra.
