

TA OF THE WEEK

October 21, 2022

Megan Cuevas

Hometown: Lufkin, Texas

Research Advisor: Thomas Kupfer

This week's TA of the week is Megan Cuevas. Megan works in the Astronomy program. Here's what the person who nominated her had to say:

This is Megan's first semester as a graduate TA, and she was unfortunate enough to have to deal with an incredibly disruptive student during an astronomy lab. She maintained order within the lab and did well to minimize the individual's effect on the rest of the students. When she later discussed this behavior with the disruptive individual, she remained calm and collected despite many rude interruptions. She was quick to ensure there was no miscommunication on either end which caused the disruption and made clear that the single incident would not affect her view of the student or lab in the future, once they came to an understanding.

CONGRATULATIONS, MEGAN!!!