

The Institute for Studies in Pragmaticism

organizes

Two International Travel Awards

funded by the EU program Digital Humanities Palacký University Olomouc

Awardees:

Shadi Nejat, graduate travel award for Cross-Disciplinary Doctoral Colloquium participants (Ph.D. Student, NIOR Lab-Department of Nutritional Sciences, Texas Tech University.)

David Hammer, undergraduate research travel award for Honors students.
(Honors College, IT Cyber Security Major, Texas Tech University.)

The awardee will present their ongoing research during the Summer Interdisciplinary Workshop

Natural and Artificial Intelligences

25-26 June

Palacký University Olomouc*

Czech Republic

The workshop is a cooperation project between ISP (Texas Tech), Digital Humanities Program (Palacký University Olomouc), and Biosemiotics Program (Charles University Prague)

The workshop examines Concepts of Natural and Artificial Intelligences in a variety of interactive environments. Its goal is to understand how these interactions impact our environment and affect us biologically, socially, and culturally.

 Palacký University Olomouc is the second oldest in the Czech Republic. Its history goes back to December 22, 1573. The development of Olomouc's university throughout four centuries has reflected the milestones in European and Czech history. Palacký University Olomouc, represented by its eight faculties, is one of the most prestigious of all Czech universities.

For more information contact: elize.bisanz@ttu.edu