Dear TTU Faculty,

The International Research and Development Division (IRDD) of the Office of International Affairs has designed a database to compile and showcase international research and development activities at Texas Tech University. The Database is populated by your voluntary submission of relevant information. You can enter your international experience and interests – this should take no more than 10 minutes – at http://www.depts.ttu.edu/international/intlrsch/researchInfo/getDataPcf.php. This page requires eraider authentication. You can visit this website through the above url to update your profile as your activities and interests change.

The Database is searchable. General public, funding agencies, and potential collaborators can search and access the Database at the public site located at http://www.depts.ttu.edu/international/intlrsch/researchInfo/main.php. We will also use the Database to provide information to you about funding opportunities and contacts of colleagues working on topics of your interest.

Thank you.
