ENGAGE

Texas Tech engages with communities across the region, state, nation, and world to help address local needs or larger societal issues. Connecting the university's knowledge and resources to the needs of West Texas citizens and beyond has been part of the university's history since its beginning in 1923. Today, this work is stronger than ever as demonstrated by the results of the university's annual assessment of faculty and staff engagement activities.

FACTS:

- Over 1,200 Texas projects.
- Over 1,100 projects benefitting West Texas.
- Over 1,700 partnerships.
- Over 1.8 million participants in projects.
- Over 300,000 of those participants were K-20.
- Every Texas Tech college and multiple administrative units engaged in community projects.
