

Dr. Jagadish's Forages lab is hiring!

We are looking for a student to help our team at The New Deal Research Farm. Applicants are required to have a valid driver's license, general farm knowledge, be able to lift at least 50lbs and be comfortable working in the field year-round. Preference will be given to those with experience operating farm equipment and working with tools.

Responsibilities in this role include:

- Assisting with field preparation, planting, and harvesting
- Performing general ground maintenance around the farm and research plots
- Repairing irrigation leaks
- Working with cattle
- Assembling and repairing heat tents/ high tunnels
- Conducting light maintenance on farm equipment and machinery
- Assisting researchers with data collection and sample processing

This is an excellent opportunity for students to gain farm knowledge and experience not taught inside a classroom. Our multi-disciplinary team provides exposure to different fields of work and future job opportunities through our annual events.

Applicants should email their resumes to Dr. Jagadish at kjagadish.sv@ttu.edu
