

PREFACE

It is axiomatic that neglect or departure from the practice and procedure of parliamentary law tends to give the majority inordinate power. It is the belief of the Committee on Rules and Administration that the proposed Standing Rules will operate as a check and control on the actions of the majority, and as a shelter and protection for the minority. It is always within the power of the majority to prevent any improper measure. The minority's only protections are the forms of proceedings contained in these rules. Strict adherence to procedure should not be viewed as obstructionism but as a method to insure the orderly conduct of the Senate's business and a means to insure the rights of both the majority and the minority. Thomas Jefferson indicated the real importance is not what the rules are but that there are specific rules and uniform proceedings not subject to the caprices of the presiding officer or the members themselves. It is essential that order, decency, and regularity be preserved in a dignified public body. By assiduously adhering to these rules, the Senate can safeguard itself against captiousness and such hackneyed appellatives as "circus," no matter how relevant the issue under consideration.

In such cases, the Presiding Officer shall not be required to relinquish the Chair, as he is required to do in cases of appeals from his decisions. The Senate shall, if appealed to, decide the matter without debate. If the decision be in favor of the member called to order, he shall be at liberty to proceed; but if the decision be against him, he shall not be allowed to proceed, and if the case requires it, he shall be liable to the censure of the Senate, or for such other punishment as the Senate may deem proper.

Section 3. When speaking on personal privilege, members must confine their remarks within the limits of this Floor, which will be strictly construed to achieve the purposes hereof.

Section 4. It shall not be in order for a member to address himself to a question of privilege: 1.) between the time an undebatable motion is offered and before the vote is taken on such motion, 2.) between the time the previous question is ordered and the vote is taken on the last proposition included under the previous question, or 3.) between the time a motion to table is offered and before the vote is taken on such a motion.

Section 5. Merits of a main or subsidiary motion shall not be discussed or debated under the guise of speaking to a question of privilege.

RULE XXIII (23)

MOTIONS

A motion to adjourn or recess shall always be in order, except 1.) when the Senate is voting on another motion; 2.) when the previous question has been ordered and before the final vote on the main question, unless a roll call shows the absence of a quorum; 3.) when a member entitled to the Floor has not yielded for such purpose; or 4.) when no business has been transacted since a motion to adjourn or recess has been defeated.

Section 7. The vote by which a motion to adjourn or recess is carried or lost shall not be subject to a motion to reconsider.

Section 8. A motion to recommit a bill or resolution, which motion has been defeated at the routine motion period, may again be made when the bill or resolution itself is under consideration; however, a motion to recommit a bill or resolution shall not be in order at the routine motion period if such bill is then before the Senate as either pending business or unfinished business.

As soon as the debate has ended, the Presiding Officer shall continue: "As many as are in favor of ordering the previous question on (here state on which question or questions) will say "Aye", and then, as many as are opposed say "Nay". As in all other propositions a motion for the previous question may be taken by a record vote if demanded by any member. If ordered by two-thirds of the members voting, a quorum being present, it shall have the effect of cutting off all debate, except as provided in Section 10 of this Rule, and bringing the Senate to a direct vote upon the immediate question or questions upon which it has been asked and ordered.

Section 2. The motion to adjourn is not in order after a motion for the previous question is accepted by the Presiding Officer, or after the seconding of such motion, and before a vote is taken thereon.

Section 3. The motion for the previous question is not subject to a motion to table.

Section 4. The previous question may be asked and ordered upon any debatable single motion, or series of motions, allowable under the Rules, or any amendments or amendments pending, or may be made to embrace all authorized debatable motions or amendments pending, and include the bill, resolution or proposition to a vote on its third reading and final passage. The previous question cannot be ordered, however, on the main proposition without including other pending motions of lower rank to it as given in Section 5 of rule XXIII.

Section 5. After a motion to table has been made, a motion for the previous question is not in order except in a case where an amendment to a main motion is pending, and a motion to table the amendment is made, in which case it is in order to move the previous question on the main motion, the pending amendment and the motion to table the amendment.

Section 6. There is no acceptable substitute for a motion for the previous question, nor can other motions be applied to it.

Section 7. The previous question shall not extend beyond the final vote on a motion sequence of motions to which the previous question has been ordered.

Section 11. All members having the right to speak after the previous question has been ordered shall speak before the question is put upon the first proposition covered by the previous question. All votes shall then be taken in the correct order, and no vote or votes shall be deferred to allow any member to close on any one of the propositions separately after the voting has commenced.

Section 12. When an amendment has been substituted and the previous question is then moved on the adoption of the amendment as substituted, the author of the amendment as substituted shall have the right to close the debate on his amendment in lieu of the author of the original amendment.

Section 13. When the previous question is ordered on a motion to postpone indefinitely or to amend by striking out the enacting clause of a bill or the resolving clause of a resolution, the member moving to postpone or amend shall have the right to close the debate on his motion or amendment, after which the mover of the proposition or bill or resolution proposed to be so postponed or amended, or the member reporting same from the committee, as the case may be, or, shall be allowed to close the debate on the original proposition for a period not to exceed three minutes each.

Section 14. No motion for an adjournment or a recess shall be in order, after the previous question is ordered, until the final vote under the previous question shall be taken, unless the roll call shows the absence of a quorum.

If the Senate shall refuse to reconsider, or upon reconsideration, affirm its decision, no further action to reconsider shall be in order.

Section 2. Every motion to reconsider shall be decided by a majority vote, even though the vote on the original question requires a two-thirds vote for affirmative action. A motion for reconsideration shall be subject to a motion to table, which, if carried, shall be a final disposition of the motion to reconsider. If the motion to reconsider prevails, the question then immediately recurs on the question reconsidered.

Section 3.
